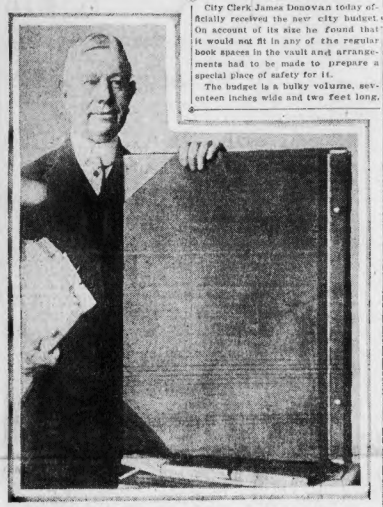
New City Budget Proves an Armful For "Smiling Jim"

City Clerk James Donovan today officially received the new city budget. On account of its size he found that it would not fit in any of the regular book spaces in the vault and arrangements had to be made to prepare a special place of safety for it.

The budget is a bulky volume, seventeen inches wide and two feet long, containing about 130 pages of extra thick and heavy paper. This budget contains the items for which it is proposed to expend approximately $25,000,000 of the money of the city of Boston and the county of Suffolk. The items number 3,602.

Large as this is, it is not the largest budget in the country by any means. The budgets of New York and Philadelphia carry more than 20,000 items each.



City Clerk James Donovan, with the new Boston Budget, a volume of such proportions that new vault arrangements must be made for its safe-keeping.

MERCHANT FACES NEW CHARGES

Declares He Hopes to Re-establish Business and Pay All Creditors When Liberty Is Restored

Henry Siegel, former millionaire merchant of New York and Boston, who has just completed a prison term for grand larceny in connection with the failure of his chain of stores and private banks, was rearrested as he stepped from the Monroe county penitentiary, New York, today, according to dispatches from Rochester, N. Y.

He was arraigned before Justice Benton, who set his bail at $25,000, which was furnished. Afterwards he left for Geneseo to spend a few days, accompanied by two nephews from Detroit, James and Leo Siegel.

The fresh charges against Siegel are based upon eleven indictments, which were found against him at the time of the failure of his stores.

Siegel faced his arrest coolly, saying that he had been assured that he would not be prosecuted at the conclusion of his prison term.

"All I want is a chance to pay my debts," said Siegel. "If I am given a chance to work and make some money I will pay all my obligations."

WANTS CHANCE TO WORK.

"All that I ask now is that I be given a chance to do some work. I want to work. I want to earn money to pay back all that I owed those in the bank, but I cannot do it if I am to be kept in the courts all the time. District Attorney Swann can really help the depositors, as I know he would like to help them, by insisting that I be left free for a while to get their money for them. The indictments have years to run yet, and if after a reasonable time I do not keep faith the District Attorney can then act.

But in all fairness to the creditors I should be given a chance to work. Further punishment, longer incarceration, won't help them any or humble me any more than I was humbled the day I came in here a prisoner. After that day one could not suffer more.

"One effect of the row that was kicked up by the minority creditors—the handful that insisted upon my being sent to jail—is that the $150,000 they might have had is no longer at my disposal. In the last year I could probably have earned another $150,000 to have gone with that sum to them. As it is, not a penny has been earned.

Report Diaz Has $10,000,000 in U. S. for Revolt

By International News Service.

El Paso, Tex., March 1.—Adherents of General Felix Diaz, instigator of the newest revolution in Mexico, said today that the Diaz movement has a fund of $10,000,000 in gold in the United States and also has the backing of the clerical party in Mexico. It is understood that a Diaz junta has been established in El Paso and sympathizers of the anti-Carranza movement declare they have at least 20,000 armed followers in southern Mexico. They predict Diaz will be in Mexico City before April 1.

Diaz will be executed if captured, the Carranza officials say.

Maine Milkmen Making Money, Says Witness

H. Locke, a milk producer of Dar Mills, Me., testified at the Boston & Maine hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission today that farmers in that State were making money on milk and were satisfied with present conditions.

Mr. Locke said that he owned seventeen cows and produced fifteen eight-quart cans of milk a day. For the past ten years he has been selling to H. P. Hood & Sons Company, and receives 2¼ cents per can with a premium of one and a quarter cents. He says that this gives him four cents per quart. In the old days he said that farmers were forced to sell milk to peddlers and received only twenty cents a can.

The witness also stated that Maine farmers were doing so well that they had begun to clean up their dairies and remedy conditions which formerly existed.

Somerville Girl Weds; Will Make Home in Hawaii

Miss Ida Gertrude Beverly of Somerville, until recently a kindergarten teacher at the Mather School in Dorchester, was married this noon to Dr. Samuel Ritty Brown of Honokwaa, Hawaiian Islands. The couple started at 2 o'clock for San Francisco, whence they sail for their new home in the Pacific.

The wedding took place at the bride's home, No. 166 Walnut street, Somerville. The ceremony was performed by the bride's uncle, the Rev. George Small of Malden. Miss Evelyn Brown, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid. Ralph E. Beverly of Somerville, brother of the bride, was best man.

ALL LOST ON ONE SHIP

Thornaby Torpedoed and None Saved as Kaiser's Submarines Launch War on Merchant Ships

By SYDNEY B. CAVE.

London, March 1.—Germany's new submarine war against British shipping, as threatened in the warning notice to the United States government, was opened on scheduled time.

The Kaiser's sea offensive against the British was set to go into effect at midnight, and before noon word had been received of the torpedoing of two merchantmen.

These were the Thornaby, 1,782 tons, and the Malvina, 1,244 tons.

It is announced that all the members of the crew of the Thornaby were killed by the attack or drowned.

The dispatch which reported the destruction of the Malvina off the Kentish Coast did not mention the fate of the crew.

The Thornaby sailed from West Hartlepool and was built in 1889. She was engaged in the freight trade.

The Malvina sailed from Leith. She was an old vessel, having been built in 1875.

From the speed with which the new German submarine war was launched in British waters, it was evident that submarines had been sent out in advance with orders to begin attacks as soon as any enemy ships were sighted today.

The German notice of the fresh offensive against English shipping had

IRISH HOME RULE AGAIN DELAYED

London, March 1.—The operation of Ireland's home rule act, which was passed shortly before the outbreak of the war, has again been postponed by an order-in-council for six months, unless the war is ended before that time. The operation of this act has already been twice postponed on account of the war.

G. T. STATION IN MONTREAL BURNED

Montreal, Can., March 1.—The Bonaventure station of the Grand Trunk Railway was destroyed by fire early today.

At first it was thought that the fire had been set by a German incendiary, but investigation showed the blaze originated in the wiring of the file room, located in the highest tower of the station. The loss was estimated at more than $250,000 by the officials.

Latest War Bulletins

Berlin, via Amsterdam, March 1.—It is reported that Germany will recall its minister to Portugal and that diplomatic relations between the two nations will be severed owing to the seizure of German ships by Portugal. Austria is expected to take a similar step.

Rome, March 1.—The fate of the Italian Cabinet, headed by Premier Salandra, hung in the balance when Parliament met today. There is much criticism of Italy's failure to declare war on Germany.

Paris, March 1.—Two German balloons of the Drachen type, which were in advance of the French front, broke their cables and fell into the sea, one off Panne and the other off Coudekerque. The aeronauts were made prisoners.

CHARGE MONEY COLLECTED BY CHAIRMAN

Charges that Representative Harry C. Foster of Gloucester collected money in the interest of a bill for the construction of a highway between Gloucester and Rockport and a demand for a public investigation were made today by Representative James M. Lyle, also of Gloucester, at a hearing on the bill before the Committee on Roads and Bridges, of which Foster is the House chairman.

The charges created a stir in the hearing and Senator John W. Haigis of Montague, Senate chairman of the committee, told Representative Lyle the matter should be investigated and asked him to place the matter before the proper tribunal.

Representative Lyle said: "Representative Foster, the House chairman of this committee, has collected money in the interest of this bill from residents of Gloucester and Rockport. I now demand a public investigation to determine who contributed this money, what was said to the contributors, and what Foster did with the money after he got it.

"If you will give a public hearing, I will bring at least one person to this committee who gave money to Foster and who will tell you what Foster said when the money was given him."

Representative Foster jumped to his feet and said:

"I have received $200. The money was properly given to me by people who favor the passage of this bill. I at once gave the money to an attorney in the interest of the bill, and the money is properly expended as a fee for the attorney. I will bring the attorney before the committee to verify this."

Alderman Antone Silva of Gloucester, waiting for Foster to finish, then said:

"When I came into the State House today and was taking off my coat in the lounging room, I heard somebody say Foster has said he will get this bill through no matter what the appropriation is."

Senator Haigis said: "There must be an investigation of these charges Representative Lyle, go ahead. Lay your charges before another tribunal in this State House. The committee demands that Alderman Silva be here at 4 o'clock with the man who made the statement that this bill would go through this committee regardless of opposition."

Alderman Silva said he would either produce the man or make a public apology.

Colonel William D. Sohier, chairman of the Massachusetts Highway Commission, injected himself into the fight by saying:

"This is a typical Essex County dog fight. I myself have been accused of taking money for my votes in Essex County."

ALLIES SHELL GERMAN LINES IN WEST

London, March 1.—Announcement by the Berlin War Office that a heavy bombardment has opened by the allies on the German positions at many points on the west front and absolute silence by the German War Office as to the fighting at Verdun is regarded of great importance here.

The Berlin statement says that at some points these bombardments grew into violent artillery duels.

In the Woevre district the French tried to destroy German works with their artillery, but were unsuccessful, the War Office says.

Three aeroplanes, one British and two French, have been shot down.

The official statement makes no mention of fighting in the Verdun sector, indicating that a comparative lull exists there except for the reciprocal cannonading.

CALLS FOR QUICK ACTION

President in Conference with Leaders in Congress Demands Firm Stand on U-Boat Crisis

Washington, March 1.—President Wilson called several leaders of Congress in conference today and gave them solemn warning that, unless the government of the United States acts altogether in harmony, at once, this country was in danger of being drawn into the war.

As a result of this conference the President was promising the support of the leaders. The conference was participated in by Chairman Flood of the House Foreign Affairs Committee and Senators Stone and Kern. It is understood that they agreed with the President.

At the close of the conference Speaker Clark and House Leader Kitchin were sent for and the President asked them to aid his program.

It is believed that they will do so.

At the conclusion of the conference, during which the President, besides laying before the conferees some important information, made an emphatic statement of conditions to them, Representative Flood made the following statement:

"President Wilson's hands will be supported by Congress. Even men who believe a resolution should pass Congress calling upon Americans to keep off armed ships during the present stage of the European war will not put themselves in a position of repudiating the position assumed by President Wilson, which he says is made necessary to maintain the nation's honor.

NEW HAVEN SUIT ON BILLARD SETTLED

By International News Service.

New York, March 1.—The suit of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company and others against John L. Billard, et al, has been settled and withdrawn from court.

The amount received by the New Haven was $1,250,000 in cash, which has been paid into its treasury.

This settlement was advised by special counsel for the New Haven, Moorfield Storey of Boston and Alvin W. Hyde of Hartford.

Suit was brought against Billard and six other officers of the Billard Company on October 6, 1914, by the New Haven and the New England Navigation Company for the recovery of $2,824,147, the plaintiff alleging fraudulent action in connection with the sale of the Boston & Maine Railroad. Billard was a former director of the New Haven and was a defendant in the suit brought against eleven directors of that road by the United States under the Sherman law.

ARREST GERMANS; FIND FORT MAPS

New York, March 1.—Following the arrest today of two Germans, Richard von Arend and Rudolph von Kracht, on the technical charge of using the mails to defraud, United States officials declared that maps showing the fortifications and piers around New York were found in their rooms. The men were held in $5,000 bail. It is alleged the men have been posing as German army lieutenants and have been mailing letters requesting contributions to the German cause.

Boston clearings, $34,221,606.

New York sub-treasury credit, $673,627.

New York clearings, $531,259,724.

The New York sub-treasury gained $17,000 from banks yesterday, making a cash net gain of $4,175,000 since Friday last.

LAVELLE SAYS HE IS FOR PELLETIER

Thomas D. Lavelle, former assistant to District Attorney Pelletier, in a statement issued today, denies he is a candidate to succeed Mr. Pelletier, and says he will support the present incumbent at the polls in November.

The statement is as follows:

"The suggestion that I intend to be a candidate for the position of District Attorney against District Attorney Pelletier is absolutely unwarranted. I resign as Assistant District Attorney to enter private practice, and all the reasons and motives for the change are included in this.

Mr. Pelletier and I have been close personal friends for many years, and this relation is not disturbed by my resignation. His own candidacy to succeed himself will have the same loyal and unqualified support from me that it would have received had I remained as his assistant. I am interested in no other man's candidacy for the position.

WINS 12-YEAR SUIT TO GET OWN PIANO

George J. Bohlman of 35 Alexander avenue, Medford, won his suit today against his mother, Mrs. Margaret Kieffer of No. 1 Prescott street, Somerville, for the recovery of a piano over which there has been much family controversy for a dozen years. The suit was a writ of replevin against the New Haven road.

Bohlman declared he had bought the piano in 1902 when he took it to his sister's, Mrs. Thomas Brack of Prescott street, Somerville. Later the family moved to Hartford, Conn., where the piano went with Mrs. Kieffer.

NEEDLESS ALARM FOR AN AUTO FIRE

Five pieces of fire apparatus were called out today for a burning automobile truck in Roland street, Somerville. Two alarms were sent in from different boxes by mistake, calling out Engine 33 of Charlestown and Engines 1 and 3, Hose 3 and Ladder 1 of Somerville.

ALLEGED ELOPER HELD AS FORGER

Warner Stone Cram, who was arrested at Essex, N. Y., following his alleged elopement with Helen Crocker, an eighteen-year-old Sharon telephone operator, was arraigned in the Stoughton court today on a charge of forging a check. He was held in $500 for the April Grand Jury. In court was Inspector Adelbert Saunders of Brockton, with two warrants accusing Cram of breaking and entering a Brockton store and of stealing two fur coats. Miss Crocker is now with relatives in Boston.

"Personally Conducted" Economy Trips to California

If you can go to California in a comfortable through sleeping car, by the most interesting scenic route, at a great saving in expense, and in charge of a Special Conductor, paid to look after details and explain the points of interest; then why spend a lot of money on costly "Limited" train service? You can go on a Burlington Route "Personally Conducted" Party. That way is not only much more economical, but much more interesting as well. Through Colorado at no extra cost.

You will be interested in learning the expense of this trip is well within reach. Just call or write and I will gladly explain all the details.

day endorsing the President's proposition. It will be reported under a special rule, which will permit its immediate consideration. I am certain that such a resolution will be passed.

HOUSE TO TAKE LEAD.

It is expected that as soon as the House acts on the proposition it will be pushed through the Senate. Whether action will be taken today is not doubtful. Blood said, as this is calendar Wednesday, under the rules, and a single objection would prevent consideration of anything but legal measures.

The conference today, like that of last Thursday, was sensational. President Wilson informed the leaders that the policy of the government was not seriously menaced by a belief, widely circulated abroad, that the country was not behind the President. This belief was seriously hampering the diplomatic negotiations between this country and the central European powers, the President said.

SOLEMN WARNING BY WILSON.

In addition, it is understood that the executive, in effect, intimated that the German Ambassador and the Austrian Charge, have been influenced by the agitation of Congress to such an extent that they have become convinced that their governments could decline to meet the demands of the United States. The President explained that the slightest show of weakness on the part of the United States at present would destroy the influence of this country abroad, and the nation, after months of strict neutrality and instead of acting to keep us out of war would be almost certain to involve us.

The discussion is understood to have been characterized by a solemn earnestness that emphasized just how critical the present international situation really is. There was not the slightest doubt in the minds of those who heard him that the President is absolutely convinced that if he is not backed up by Congress at the present time, the result will be very disastrous to the country.

OPPOSITION WEAKENING.

The Senators explained to the President that there was no doubt that the great majority of Democratic Senators were willing to permit the exhaustion of diplomatic measures before taking any action at all.

It is understood that they took the position that at no time have there been more than a dozen votes in sight for the Gore resolution, and that now, with the special agitation raised that number would dwindle materially if a record vote were ordered. In consequence it was suggested that the initiative should be taken in the House.

Speaker Champ Clark and Representative Flood accepted this viewpoint, especially in view of the allegation that the Gore resolution was the cause of the agitation, and the Speaker and the House leader immediately were telephoned for.

The Speaker and Mr. Kitchin agreed with the President that action should be taken without unnecessary delay and most of their discussion was on the method of procedure. It was agreed that the resolution should be framed by the foreign affairs committee, and as soon as it has been agreed on the rules committee will be notified and will draft the special rule under which action can be taken.

SIDETRACK OLD RESOLUTIONS.

It also was agreed that none of the resolutions now before the House committee should be reported. Instead a new resolution that will satisfy the majority will be drawn. It is expected that it will take the form of an indorsement of the President's foreign policy, especially in connection with the submarine situation, and will give him a free hand to deal with the entire situation.

The Speaker and House leader told the President that the parliamentary situation undoubtedly would prevent action today, but they assured him that action will be had not later than tomorrow.

At the same time the Senate leaders also said no action could be taken today because of a notification from Senator Jones of Washington that he will object to the Gore resolution when it is called up. As the Senate took recess last night instead of adjourning, this would take the place of today.

PROMPT ACTION EXPECTED.

As soon as Chairman Flood reached the Capitol he called a meeting of his committee, behind closed doors, to canvass the situation and decide on the text of the proposed resolution.

After their return to the Capitol Senators Stone and Kern held a short conference in the Senate foreign relations committee room. Senator Stone then began taking a canvass of the situation by interviewing various other Senators.

"I don't believe anything will be done in the Senate until after the House has acted," Senator Kern said. "There will be no effort so far as I am concerned, to get unanimous consent for consideration of the Gore resolution today."

DIFFER AS TO METHODS.

While many administration congressional lieutenants took the position that the best way to dispose of the differences of opinion over the international situation would be to have the Foreign Affairs Committee adversely report the resolution warning Americans off armed ships and then have the House and Senate sustain that action, opinion in the Capitol was so divided that a stormy series of conferences ensued certain before a definite plan will be decided on.

Many members wanted a general blanket indorsement of the President's foreign policy in dealing with all belligerents. This would be beneficial everywhere, they urged, and would be "strictly neutral." Others wanted the resolution limited to an indorsement of the submarine policy.

So varied were the views that the leaders welcomed the parliamentary obstacle which probably will postpone action until tomorrow. The House galleries were well filled at 11 o'clock, although the session did not open until 12, with spectators who were hopeful of a day of oratory.

Senate Embroiled Over Shields Bill.

Washington, March 1.—Immediately after convening today the Senate became embroiled in a hot debate to break the deadlock over the Shields dam bill and permit consideration of the Gore resolution. The tension produced by the President's letter to Representative Fox was evidenced when a dozen Senators took the floor at once.

Senator Shields tried to get unanimous consent to continue the debate on his bill to the exclusion of all other business. After much parliamentary see-sawing, the debate was brought to an abrupt ending by Senator Sherman of Ohio objecting to Shields' unanimous consent proposal. The plan of the administration leaders was to move to adjourn at the close of this afternoon's session until noon tomorrow. Under the adjournment rule, it will be possible to bring up the Gore resolution tomorrow. This is expected to precipitate another fight.

The international situation was not even remotely referred to in the debate on the Senate floor although the motive behind the fight was plainly obvious.

In the House Chairman Flood of the House Foreign Affairs Committee caused a mild stir by circulating among the members in the corridors and cloak rooms a tentative draft of a resolution giving a blanket indorsement to the President's position.

The divergence of views held by the leaders in Congress found reflection in conferences in committee rooms and cloak rooms. In this connection Representative John J. Fitzgerald of Brooklyn, leader of the Tammany forces, after talking with the Speaker and Leader Kitchin, said:

"No matter what action is taken by us, I believe that it should be made plain that, regardless of our abstract rights, no American citizen should jeopardize the interests of this country by traveling on armed ships."

WAR SUMMARY

Germany's U-boat war on British shipping, as per warning, began on time, as was expected, but the significant feature of its first demonstration was the way the campaign was opened right in England's front yard, so to speak. Two British merchantmen, the Thornalby and the Malvina, were torpedoed. The Malvina was sunk off the Kentish coast. The quick start of the submarine operations after the time set by Germany had expired showed that the Teuton U-boats had been sent out well ahead of time with advance orders to start in on the hour. London cables indicate that England has a mental picture now of unnumbered sea-divers waiting in British waters for merchant prey.

Military experts are describing the Verdun situation now as a "lull in the proceedings." This is merely comparative, meaning that the terrific batterings by the German forces, the record rain of shells and the desperate infantry charges, with their horrible mortality, have slackened. French official dispatches report the enemy bombardment as having "less intensity." But the Teuton line has been shoved farther forward east of Verdun, so that Verdun is now half-encircled from northwest to southeast.

While Verdun is not the gateway to Paris, it is of enormous importance for the French to hold and the Teutons to take. Henri Berenger of the French Senate said today that the fortress is the key to the heights of the Meuse and must be held at any price.

There is a rising note of expectation in all dispatches, looking toward decisive action any time. The impression is gained that the Germans are to attempt another of their wholesale attacks, probably from the eastern approach, but French officials maintain that the heights of the Meuse River can never be stormed, not even by such death-defying troops as those Brandenburgers who rushed to destruction at Douaumont.

Details of the Verdun fighting contain more and more awful pictures of the way man is butchering his brother-man. At some points corpses lie in walls over a yard high. In the Caures woods French engineers mined a stretch of the hillside, then retreated. The Teutons rushed hotly after them. When the Frenchmen were out of the mined area and the Teutons were in it, a man in the French engineers' office simply pushed a button. The whole mined section was blown up and the Germans with it.

While the opening of the German U-boat campaign and the sudden call by President Wilson for a congressional show-down on the merchant ship question are the high lights just now in maritime matters, a shipping development in Italy has lively possibilities. When Italy declared war on Austria it seized twenty Austrian ships which were in Italian ports. There have been thirty-seven German ships interned in Italian ports. The Italian government has requisitioned thirty-four of these. The question arises: Is this the beginning of war between Italy and Germany, too?

Gunners Unable to Locate U-Boat

Paris, March 1.—Gun crews of the French auxiliary cruiser La Provence remained at their posts while the vessel was slowly settling, hoping to get a shot at the submarine that had torpedoed their vessel, but without avail.

The Marine Ministry stated that La Provence was being used to transport troops to Salonica when it was sunk. As the ship was able to carry more than 2,500 persons it was feared today that more than 1,300 of these on board perished. The known rescued stand at 87.

U-BOATS SINK TWO BRITISH SHIPS

stated that armed merchant ships were to be attacked without notice, but there was nothing to show that the Thornalby and Malvina bore guns.

News of the sinking of the ships aroused the greatest anxiety in shipping circles and insurance rates were immediately raised.

It is believed that there are at least a score of German submarines in the waters around the British Isles, the line of hostile underwater craft extending all the way from the Atlantic to the North Sea.

Coincident with the beginning of the fresh U-boat warfare, Lord Robert Cecil, Minister of War Trade, has issued, in London, a statement giving the British view of the status of merchantmen. This statement, which is in answer to queries whether merchantmen have been instructed to take the offensive against submarines, says:

"The British view has always been that defensively armed merchantmen must not fire on submarines or on any other vessels, except in self-defence. The Germans have twisted a passage in a document taken from a transport which they sank, into meaning that merchant vessels have instructions to take the offensive. This is not so.

"The passage in question, which lays down a maximum distance beyond which merchant ships are advised not to fire, must be read in conjunction with another passage which makes it perfectly clear that merchant vessels must not attempt unless a submarine shows unmistakably hostile intentions.

Some of the steamers known today to be in danger of U-boat attacks are:

ITALIAN (ARMED).

Giuseppi Verdi, sails today from New York.

San Guglielmo and Nanoli, due to sail from New York March 4.

Umeriea, due at New York March 5.

Taurania, sailed from New York February 17.

Prometo, sailed from Port Arthur, Tex., February 22.

FRENCH (UNARMED).

Lafayette, sailed from New York February 26.

Espagne, sailed from New York February 24.

BRITISH (UNARMED).

Cretic, sailed from Boston February 26.

Espagne, sailed from New York February 24.

All the Italian liners are subject under the new order, to attack without warning. The French and British steamers, being unarmed, would be given warning, according to Berlin assurances.

The safe arrival at Punta Delgada, Azores, of the White Star liner Cretic is announced, the ship having sailed from Boston about a week ago with several hundred passengers. After debarking a number of passengers the Cretic is believed to have sailed from Punta Delgada for Madeira, and is due to reach Gibraltar, the latter part of this week. The 1,000-mile voyage to Naples, the liner's destination, ordinarily occupies fourteen days.

In London the Admiralty has made public a list of "unarmed British vessels torpedoed and sunk by enemy submarines, without warning" up to the end of 1915. It comprises thirty-nine steamers and one trawler.

A list also given of neutral vessels said to have been torpedoed in the same manner without warning, consisting of thirteen steamers and one sailing vessel, of which two, the Gulflight and Nebraskan, were American, four Norwegian, four Swedish, one Dutch, one Danish, one Greek and one Portuguese.

"VESSELS UNWARNED."

"In addition to the above, says the admiralty statement, "there are several cases in which there is no reasonable doubt that the vessel was sunk by a torpedo fired without warning from a submarine, but in the absence of actual proof, due to a lack of survivors or other causes, these cases are omitted from the list."

The German memorandum dealing with armed merchantmen received from Berlin, February 10, contained the following alleged instructions to British merchantmen, said to have been taken from a British boat captured or sunk by the Germans:

If a defensively armed vessel is pursued by a submarine, the master has two alternatives—(A) To open fire at long range immediately in the hope of driving off the submarine really is in pursuit of; (B) to restrain fire until submarine has come into range, say 800 yards, at which the fire is likely to be effective. In view of the great difficulty of distinguishing between a friendly submarine which may lead to fatal Bright's disease.

Curtail Bookings At Boston Office.

John H. Thomas, Boston agent for the International Mercantile Marine Company, announced today that the company was not booking passengers for the White Star liners Laplland, Baltic and Adriatic, which sail from New York between March 8 and March 29. The company owns the White Star line and also controls the American line.

The company's refusal to book passengers for the White Star liners was taken by some to mean that there was a fear that the ships might be attacked by submarines. This, however, was denied by officials of the company.

GOOD-BYE, RHEUMATISM, BACKACHE, WEAK KIDNEYS

An unhealthy body and the unhappiness and misery which follow may be prevented by ordinary judgment and care. Keep your stomach and kidneys in shape and you will have good health. The kidneys' work is to throw off the poisonous matters which enter the body. If they perform this work regularly and automatically the other organs will take care of themselves.

Diseased conditions of the bladder or kidneys are indicated by nervousness, sleeplessness, that tired, worn-out feeling, dizziness, nausea, backache, lumbago, rheumatism, pain in the lower abdomen, any so-called "female troubles," severe pain and discomfort when urinating, bloody, cloudy and stringy urine, too frequent or suppressed passages. All these are nature's danger signals to warn you of diseased kidneys or bladder, which may lead to fatal Bright's disease.

The remedy is a simple matter if you act promptly. Go to your druggist and get a box of genuine GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. Haarlem Oil has been a standard remedy for all kidney and bladder troubles since 1696. It is imported direct from the ancient laboratories at Haarlem, Holland. Be sure you get the genuine GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. No substitute will give the proper result.

Don't wait until the danger is upon you. Go to your druggist at once. Get a trial box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. They are made of the pure, original Haarlem Oil, the kind your great-grandmother used. about two capsules each day will keep you toned up and feeling fine. Money refunded if they do not help you. But remember to ask for the imported GOLD MEDAL brand.

"PREPARE," SAYS MRS. STORROW

Mrs. James J. Storrow made a strong plea today for preparedness on the part of women, not only in the event of war, but in every emergency of life, before the woman's branch of the National Security League at the headquarters, No. 601 Boylston street.

Mrs. Storrow urged brides to study preparedness in their homes and find out the economic values of food stuff. "Know how to save," was her advice on the general subject of preparedness in the emergencies of life.

After describing the German and Swiss systems of military training she said in part:

"The world today is on fire. We are naturally studying other systems of military preparation. Mothers are today making inquiries about the camp at Plattsburg; they do not want their sons to be put in the background on account of inefficiency. Let us today advocate universal military training. Any other attitude is unfair, undemocratic and illogical.

WOMEN HAVE DUTIES.

"While men are playing their part in defending their country, what are we women to do? Are we to sit still and let the men defend us? Is there not something we can learn to do?

"We women are going to find our work, and we are going to do it. We are going to work for national defence. There are many emergencies in which women can play a part. The Salem fire, and fires like it, offer an opportunity.

"I remember some time ago a railroad accident happened near where I was staying, when 23 were killed and a number injured. All I could do was to take down to the scene of the accident some sheets and brandy. Others took blankets, which were very serviceable. We ought to be able to know what to do in first aid.

SOME FALSE NOTIONS.

"We have grown to feel that one Yankee is equal to three other men, but we must get over this.

"So I ask the women of today what we can do in the event of war, or any other emergency?

"We should advocate better physical training for boys and girls in our schools. These school children should be told the true story of the national history. Both boys and girls should be taught to be self-reliant.

"We should be prepared by knowing more about the economy to be followed in our own households, so that this advice may be heeded, not only by the woman who has ten servants but by women who do their own work. Food values should be studied.

"Women, should organize all over the country to learn what to do in any emergency. When we are, and to handle the emergencies of life intelligently, we then can do our part in the defence of our country or our institutions and co-operate with the men of military training."

APPOINTMENTS AT HARVARD TODAY

Simon Flexner of New York, director of the laboratory of medical research connected with the Rockefeller Foundation, and Dr. George W. McCoy, managing director of the United States Laboratory at Washington, were chosen to deliver the Cutter lectures in the Harvard Medical School today during the next three months.

Joseph D. Brannan, Bussey professor of law, has resigned. He has been appointed a professor emeritus. Ignacio E. de Quesada has been appointed professor of Latin-American history and economics. Louis Allard is to be assistant professor of French and John M. Brewer instructor in education. Professor Ephraim Emerton was granted a leave of absence for the second half of 1916-1917.

BRITISH STEAMER CALLS FOR HELP

HALIFAX, N. S., March 1.—The British steamer San Onofre, helpless in the Atlantic today, sent out wireless calls for assistance. The S. O. S messages were picked up by the British steamer Ashtabula, which reported to the Marine and Fisheries agency here that it was proceeding to the assistance of the San Onofre, but would be unable to reach that vessel before Thursday morning. The San Onofre is a tank steamer of 9,717 tons and is owned by the Eagle Transport Company, Ltd.

SOUND ALARM FOR BLAZE IN AUTO

A slight fire under the radiator hood of an auto owned by William R. Hallett of Hingham caused considerable excitement about noon today. The machine was standing at Chauncy and Bedford streets when a passer-by sounded a needless alarm. The chauffeur borrowed a fire extinguisher and put out the blaze.

'Granddaddy' M'Call Is Happy with Young Relatives from West

CALL BRANDEIS' PARTNER AT HEARING

Washington, March 1.—Stephen S. Gregory of Chicago, a member of the American Bar Association, declared today at the hearing before a Senate subcommittee investigating the fitness of Louis D. Brandeis of Boston for appointment to the Supreme Bench that Mr. Brandeis' reputation was "excellent," that his "general reputation as distinguished from his Boston reputation" was that of a lawyer of "ability and character."

Attorney Fox, on cross-examination, read to the witness the canons of ethics governing professional conduct adopted by the American Bar Association requiring undivided fidelity on the part of attorney toward client. Mr. Gregory admitted that Mr. Brandeis was a "man of strong convictions and tenacity of purpose."

Mr McClennen, Mr. Brandeis' law partner, resumed his testimony concerning the United Shoe Machinery case. The witness began at the point of Mr. Brandeis' appearance before the Massachusetts Legislature to oppose a bill favored by the activities of the United company.

At the time, he said, the Brandeis firm represented a number of shoe manufacturers, and a number of them were afraid the bill would have a disastrous effect upon the industry. The burden of Mr. McClennen's testimony was that Mr. Brandeis was protecting his clients, the shoe manufacturers, rather than the shoe machinery company.

"The Shoe Manufacturers Alliance," said the witness in response to questions, "paid Brandeis, Dunbar & Nutter $2,500. Mr. Brandeis returned to them $2,500 out of his personal funds. We were practicing law for pay, and Mr. Brandeis felt that while we could stand for him to give his time to public causes, it was a little hard on the rest of us, when there was a client who was willing to pay him for those services, not to take it."

JOHN, D. HEADS TAX LIST IN MANHATTAN

New York, March 1.—Thirty-two residents of the borough of Manhattan are assessed for $10,000 or more on personal property alone, according to a report of the tax department. John D. Rockefeller leads with an assessment of $5,000,000. Henry H. Davison of J. P. Morgan & Co., is rated with personal property aggregating $1,000,000. Abraham Kriangger, theatrical promoter, is assessed at $475,000. Other increases were: Jean D. Rockefeller, Jr., $104,500 to $500,000; George Khret, $400,000 to $1,000,000; Adrian Iselin, $100,000 to $252,000; Jacob H. Schiff, $400,000 to $1,000,000; James Speyer, $200,000 to $1,000,000, and Frederick W. Vanderbilt, $120,000 to $320,000.

BOY CORN GROWERS VISIT PRESIDENT

Washington, March 1.—Twenty boys who won honors for corn growing in Vermont, Massachusetts and Illinois shook hands with President Wilson at the White House today.

Samuel Walker McCall has become the Governor of a great State since his grandchildren last saw him, but they don't care for that. To them he is still "Granddaddy McCall."

They visited him at the State House for the first time. There was Harry McCall, four, and little Tom, three, with just the kind of ruddy cheeks, blue eyes and flaxen hair you would expect for the grandchildren of a Governor.

"You're great little pillow fighters, aren't you, boys?" said the Governor.

"Yes, grandpa; let's play," they said.

Mrs. McCall had sent in a bouquet of flowers and two boxes of toys. The executive chamber was converted into a nursery, and the First Man of the State, with a proud smile on his face, looked down happily while his two little grandchildren played with toys just as they would at home.

Then he took them upon his knee, with the same proud smile, while an AMERICAN photographer "snapped" them. They looked into the camera's eye bravely. The camera man said they were fine "subjects."

WOOD TO HOLD JOB TILL STORY IS OUT

Commissioner Charles G. Wood can't resign from the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration before March 15, whether he wants to or not.

Commissioner Wood, having turned author, has written a story on the industrial situation for a weekly magazine and the forms have been set up with the caption under his name, "Member of the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration of Massachusetts."

Being a practical newspaperman, Commissioner Wood will not resign or otherwise embarrass the publication of his article, which is due to come out March 18.

He and Commissioner Bump are going to resign and establish a private bureau for investigation of industrial disputes.

NEW DIVIDEND BY LOWELL BANK

Lowell, March 1.—The Traders' National Bank, which went bankrupt two years ago, announced a dividend of 10 per cent. today for depositors, to be paid April 1. The dividend will amount to $251,000. Its payment will bring the total paid to depositors to $2,254,243.34, and will leave but 20 per cent. of the claims allowed. It is that depositors will receive nearly full payment.

FRUIT COMPANY CHARTERS SHIP

The United Fruit Company announced today that it had chartered the Boston steamer Lewis K. Thurlow to ply between the West Indies and Boston and New York. The charter was made necessary because of the seizure by the British government of several newly completed steamers owned by the company at Belfast, Ireland. The price was not announced, but it is believed to be upward of $30,000 a month for eighteen months.

UNITARIANS BUY STAR ISLAND

Star Island, one of the fair units in the picturesque Isles of Shoals group, off the New Hampshire coast, has been secured by outright purchase for its Unitarian devotees and, by the same token, has been saved from the hectic prospect of being syndicated for a gay and jovial Summer resort.

If the pretty islet had a soul it would hardly be an exaggeration to say that the New England Unitarians, who have flocked there for Summer meetings year after year, would regard the purchase as verily saving such soul from the temptations of the world, the flesh and whatever goes with them.

Star Island has been bought by Lewis Parkhurst of Winchester, a Boston publisher, whose wealth is estimated in million-nine figures.

SHOCKED BY RUMORS.

New England Unitarians, who have rejoiced in the use of Star Island for mid-year gatherings, heard with dismay recently that a syndicate was being capitalized to buy the islet and transform it into a Summer resort that would call loudly to the automobile and road house contingent. It was to become a sort of sea-going Pernecroft Inn.

At the height of the season the isle was to hear, not the uplifting argument of the theologian and the academician, but was to re-echo rather to the clink of the ice-filled bowl and the pop of the departing cork.

The principal uplift, under the syndicating prospect, would be the uplifting of frazile glasses, laden with exhilarating liquors.

Leading Unitarians of Greater Boston started a movement to act positively to save the island on behalf of the Unitarian Association. But time was short, so Mr. Parkhurst stepped in with a direct purchase, so as to block any skulduggling of the isle from its orthodox track. Mr. Parkhurst confirmed to the AMERICAN today a report of his purchase, saying:

"ISLAND IS SAFE."

"I bought the island myself. I had no time to consult all our people throughout New England. The need for action was then, and I took the action. I simply bought Star Island right out.

"The fund needed for purchase and for proper care of the island was $40,000, to be paid by the first of April. I put in $5,000 myself. The rest is coming in by subscription. We have $30,000 paid now. The remaining $10,000 falls due April 1. I guess we shall have no difficulty in getting that, seeing what we have done already. You may say that Star Island is safe."

PUBLIC LIBRARY PROTESTS BUDGET

The trustees of the Public Library, presented a memorial to Mayor Curley today, in support of their contention that the Mayor has no right to segregate the items for salaries of the employes of the Public Library. The trustees claim that their pay roll should be appropriated by the Council in a lump sum, basing their contention on a statute passed in 1878 designed to prevent politicians from unloading favorites on the trustees of the library, and also on an opinion rendered by Judge Sheldon.

5,000 ARE IDLE IN QUINCY QUARRIES

Five thousand employes of granite manufacturers in Quincy are idle, and every granite establishment is closed today as the result of the failure of the cutters and manufacturers to reach an agreement. The old agreement, which was in force for five years, expired at midnight. It is said that the only controversy with regard to the new agreement is over the duration.

I. W. W. USES GUNS IN SCRANTON RIOT

Scranton, Pa., March 1.—Dynamite and revolvers were used by rioting I. W. W. at the Greenwood colliery of the Delawars & Hudson Coal Company today, when an attack was made upon miners who refused to join the strike. Many shots were fired and a dozen cars in the colliery yards were blown up. State police men were rushed to the scene and five arrests were made.

IMMIGRATION IS ABOVE AVERAGE

Immigration returns for the port of Boston showed today that the number of immigrants landed here in the month of February exceeded the February average for the past ten years. This was due in great part to unusually heavy immigration of Portuguese from the Azores and Madeira Islands. The arrivals for February included: Steerage passengers, 2,218; second cabin, 251; saloon, 77; hostiers, 799; stowaways, 14.

ABANDON BIG LIGHT ISLAND GRAB

The gas and electric lighting corporations of this State backed down completely today in their attempt to issue $36,000,000 of new stock.

The bill before the Legislature in which they were attempting to gain this power was recently exposed by the AMERICAN.

Had they been successful in forcing the bill through the Legislature one of the results would have been to compel the people of Boston to pay $800,000 more every year to keep the price of gas down to 80 cents.

When the bill came up for hearing today before the Committee on Public Lighting, Representative Essex S. Abbott of Haverhill, who filed the bill in the Legislature, asked that it be reported "leave to withdraw" at the request of the petitioner.

Everett W. Burdett, legislative counsel for the big gas and electric lighting corporations of the State, also asked that the bill be reported adversely. His explanation was as follows:

"Mr. Chairman, the purpose of this bill is all right, but this is not the time to press it."

The hearing closed at once.

The bill would allow the gas and electric companies to issue $36,000,000 of stock against their premiums. The stock would be given free to the stockholders.

According to experts on the gas situation, the real purpose behind the bill was, by the issuance of new stock, to automatically reduce the rate of dividends, which now give the cities and towns the best argument for demanding reductions in the price of gas.

The rates of dividends would be reduced, the experts said, but the companies would actually pay out as much money in dividends as they do now. Gradually the rates of dividends would be increased back to their present figures, the experts say, and the stock owners would be getting twice as much money, although the rates would not afford a logical argument upon which to demand fifty cents a thousand feet of gas.

Mr. Burdett, at the same hearing today, also withdrew a bill which would allow the companies to issue bonds up to twice the amount of their capital stock. Under the present law the bonds cannot be issued in excess of the capital stock.

CARRANZA TAKES NOTICE OF DIAZ

Washington, March 1 — General Carranza, head of the de facto government of Mexico, through Eliseo Arredondo, his ambassador here, today for the first time took cognizance of the reported revolution headed by Felix Diaz in Oaxaca, Mexico. Arredondo, he declared, did not place credence in the reports Diaz is active in the field, but added he would do so if such is the case, as the Carranza government could then demonstrate how weak the Diaz movement is.

CAUGHT IN CHASE, GETS FOUR YEARS

James R. Pickney, alias William J. Green, alias William J. Brown of Williams terrace, Roxbury, today in the Roxbury court was sentenced to four years in the House of Correction on four counts of breaking and entering. He appealed and was held in $1,000. The man, who was captured by Patrolman O'Neil after a chase in which four shots were fired, is also wanted by Police Headquarters and the East Dedham street station.

Elizabeth P. Bigelow, Wed in Trinity Church to Baltimore Doctor

Mrs. Frank Martin (Miss Bigelow), married this afternoon to Baltimore physician.

STILL ANOTHER JUMP NEAR IN GASOLINE

An increase of one cent is expected in the price of gasoline, with the possibility that it will reach 40 cents within a short time, according to automobile men today.

Despite the fact that the price of "gas" has risen almost 200 per cent since 1907, with further increases in sight, there is no concentrated effort to investigate the cause of this steady advance.

The Motor Truck Club of America has appointed a committee to look into the matter, but the Automobile Club of America has taken no action. This is the parent organization of more than one hundred and fifty "clubs" on the United States.

Officers of the American Automobile Association, which has thousands of members throughout the United States, are not in favor of Federal investigation of the gasoline situation. The organization's opinion on the question is explained in the February issue of American Motorist, the official publication. The editorial says:

Will somebody please call off the Washington gentlemen who announce that they are going to investigate the recent advance in the price of gasoline? In 1907 Washington investigated the Standard Oil trust, at least, Washington said it did. The result was that within eight years the value of all Standard Oil stocks and bonds have increased 300 per cent, while the price of gasoline has an almost equal advance.

'Tis make perfectly plain the utter foolishness of such an investigation, the facts are so plain that every Congressman should be able to see them. As a prime war necessity, gasoline is being sold for what the traffic will bear. That's all. No Congressional act any other investigator can alter the truth contained in those fifteen words. So please, Mr. Congressman, don't go on investigating.

According to official figures, Standard Oil Company had on hand during January 67,000,000 barrels of crude oil. Much of this product is said to have been obtained from independent dealers who sold to the open market. This piece of instance, it was said, will net the company a profit of $99,000,000.

LICENSE BOARD TO CLOSE MAXIM'S MAY 1

The Maxim Hotel at No. 51 Harrison avenue, in the Chinatown district, was struck a death blow by the Licensing Board when it announced that no hotel license would be granted there after May 1.

This action followed a hearing at which complaints were made against the hotel by former waiters.

INSIST ON DR. HILTON'S No. 3
FOR THE RELIEF OF COLDS GRIPPE
Always carry a bottle of No. 3 and take it on the first indication of a COLD. 50 cents a bottle.—At all Druggists.

Miss Elizabeth P. Bigelow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Bigelow of No. 16 Marlboro street, was married today by Dr. Frank Martin of Baltimore. The wedding took place in Trinity Church, and the Rev. Alexander Mann officiated.

The wedding was an unusually quiet one owing to the recent death of a brother of the bride. Miss Bigelow, who is a Vincent Club member, wore a gown of white satin with a lace veil. She was attended by Miss Dore Martin of New York, one of her closest friends. The ushers were Dr. Ridgely B. Woolfield and Walter Keith, both of Baltimore.

Following the ceremony a collation was served at the Beacon residence, after which the young couple left on their wedding trip. They will live in Baltimore.

OLIVER B. MUNROE OF MELROSE DEAD

Former Mayor Oliver B. Munroe of Melrose, for many years a financial and textile editor, died suddenly today of asthmatic trouble at his home, No. 32 Howard street, Melrose Highlands.

Mr. Munroe was fifty-nine years old. He was born in Providence and was graduated from Brown University in 1878. For ten years he was financial editor of the Providence Journal. In 1890 he came to Boston and was editor of the Cotton and Wool Reporter up to five years ago, when he retired.

He was alderman in Melrose for six terms, park commissioner four years and Mayor in 1913 and 1914. He leaves a wife and four children.

$15,000 AWARDED TO BOY FOR LOST ARM

New York, March 1.—A verdict for $15,000 was awarded to 13-year-old Charles Manno for the loss of an arm. The verdict was given by a jury in Supreme Court against the Duffy Contracting Company. His father, Dominico Bianco, was allowed $2,000 additional.

ALDERMAN IN ROW IS HELD

Alderman John J. Mullen of Everett, who was carried out of the Everett aldermanic chamber by four policemen last night after being declared suspended from the board by Chairman Clinton Hobbs, limped into Malden district court today and pleaded not guilty to charges of disturbing the peace and interrupting a meeting of the board. After court Mullen said he would fight the case up to the highest court if necessary.

At his request the case was continued until March 9.

His arrest, followed a refusal to recognize the decree of Chairman Clinton Hobbs that he was suspended from the board and therefore had no right at the meeting.

The whole affair is the culmination of charges of graft which Mullen brought against the Everett Board of Public Works. The Aldermen charged him with having insulted the Mayor, the Board of Public Works and the rest of the board and ordered him suspended. Mullen has declined the suspension.

Mullen was taken to the Everett police station crying hysterically, and declaring that his arm had been broken and his back wrenched by the officers who struggled with him at City Hall. Dr. Henry J. Keaney was called and examined him, but failed to find even a bruise. After a half-hour or so Mullen calmed and produced $50 cash bail for his release.

Following his release on bail, he made the following statement:

"I have been abused by the Everett police. During the abusing my watch chain was jerked from my pocket and a $15 diamond charm is missing. Perhaps some of the officers may know where it is.

"You may expect to see all the members of the Board of Aldermen before the East Cambridge Superior Court some day this week. Notwithstanding the fact that I shall be present at the meeting of March 4, and if they persist and the matter is not settled I do not doubt but I will probably see the same disgraceful scene acted over again."

AN APPEAL.
You only a cavalry charger,
And I only a man;
(For my body is riddled with bullets—
And I'm crippled with rheumatic pain);
And though I've no words to express it,
I'm trying to say all I can.
To bind forks who work for the bind (Please)
Oh, please help the blue cross as well!

My master was one in a thousand,
And I loved him with all my heart
(For brave men are built just like humans,
Be kind to them, boys, for that's smart);
And glad was I when I heard the bugle
This time as no stranger as you'd fancy—
The Russians it was, I believe.

You only a cavalry charger,
And my eyes are becoming quite dim;
But I don't mind much, for I'm going
So long as I'm going to HIM!
Oh, brothers, I'm sorry to comrades,
Who're dying and suffering, leave—
But I'm sure that you would—if you knew,
SMITH-DORRIEN.

ALLIES BOMBARD GERMAN LINES

"At various points the enemy carried out a bombardment which was apparently in retaliation for German gains and to cover their own disappointments. On the other hand, in the region of the Yser (in West Flanders), in Champagne and between the Meuse and Moselle Rivers (the Woevre district), it seemed that they were endeavoring to damage our works. However, they failed to achieve this object.

"An English biplane was forced down near Menin (southeast of Ypres), and the occupants made prisoners.

"Two French biplanes were also brought down, one near Vezaponin, northwest of Soissons, and the other west of Soissons.

"East front—There is nothing to report.

"Italian front—The positions are unchanged."

SLIGHT LULL IN STRIFE.

According to the latest French communique issued military activity, both to the north of Verdun and to the east on the Woevre region, was confined chiefly to artillery engagements during the night.

The text of the communique follows:

"In the region to the north of Verdun, as well as in the Woevre, no important developments were reported during the night. There was an intermittent bombardment at different points on our front. Between Regneville and Bonremanville, west of Pont-au-Mousson, we bombarded the second and third lines of the enemy where his forces appeared to be preparing for activity.

"In Alsace our batteries were active in shelling the communication lines of the enemy in the region of Leymen in the Thur valley.

"One of our biplanes attacked an enemy aeroplane, which fell at La Bassee on the German trenches, and caught fire as it reached the ground.

"The Germans, according to Paris advices, have pushed their lines forward four miles in the Woevre plain and have brought the forts of Rozelier, Haudainville and de Belrupt, guarding Verdun on the west, under the fire of their big guns.

With approximately 1,500,000 men and more than 1,500 guns engaged, the mighty conflict has now reached its tenth day, with the attacking forces held in check at most of the points of battle north of Verdun, although they have made important gains east of the fortress.

These gains are not regarded seriously by French military experts, who hold that the German losses were out of proportion to the German gains and that the heights of the Meuse cannot be taken by storm except through a miracle of military strategy.

During the lull in the infantry fighting north of Verdun, both sides have strengthened their positions with fresh intrenchments and have rushed up reserves and large supplies of ammunition for a renewal of the conflict.

Military movements continue to emphasize the belief that it is the object of German strategy to compel a retirement of the French from the Woevre district and to encircle Verdun in a girdle of steel. This accounts for the growing intensity of the German attacks east and southeast, throwing forward reinforcements and day is in progress over St. Mihiel, with the same disregard for life that characterized the onslaughts against Douaumont, Samogneux,

HEARS TEUTONS LOST 400,000 AT VERDUN

London, March 1.—The Daily Graphic's parliamentary correspondent says that Sir Alfred Mond, M. P., has told in Paris that well-informed hearsay that the German losses in Verdun last week-end were estimated by a military authority on Sunday at 8,000 much larger figure than had been quoted hitherto, namely, between 200,000 and 300,000, of whom the dead number 100,000.

PREMIER ASQUITH LOSING HIS VOICE

By the International News Service.

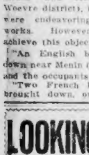
London, March 1.—Premier Asquith is losing his voice. It was announced today. The trouble, which has long existed, settled in his throat. He will be unable to deliver any long speeches for several months, and may be unable ever again to engage in debate.

BRITISH FEBRUARY LOSSES ARE 18,500

London, March 1.—British casualties on all fronts, as published during February, show a total of 733 officers and 17,767 men killed, wounded or missing.

LOOKING BACKWARD 60 YEARS

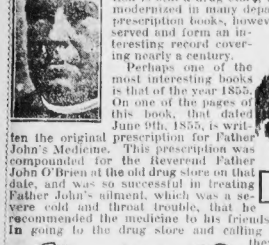
An Interesting Bit of History Everybody Should Know



The Old Prescription Book

One of the interesting places in Lowell, Mass., is the old apothecary shop on Merrimack street, established in 1827. This location is still a drug store, although of course modernized in many departments. The old prescription books, however, have been preserved and form an interesting record covering nearly a century.

Perhaps one of the most interesting books is that of the year 1855, for in one of the pages of this book, that dated June 9th, 1855, is written the original prescription for Father John's Medicine. This prescription was compounded for the Reverend Father John O'Brien at the old drug store on that date, and was so successful in treating Father John's ailment, which was a severe cold and throat trouble, that he recommended the medicine to his friends and parishioners. In going to the drug store and calling for the medicine, they always asked for Father John's Medicine, and in this way the medicine got its name and was advertised.



The Old Apothecary Shop Established in 1827.

Father John's Medicine is a safe family remedy for colds, coughs, throat troubles, and as a tonic and body builder, because it does not contain opium, morphine, chloroform and any other poisonous drugs or alcohol, but is all pure, wholesome, nourishing. Advertisement.

Kaiser's Supreme Effort, Say Experts

Paris, March 1.—Military critics agree that Germany is now engaged in her supreme effort on the west front, but the causes which led up to it are political as well as military.

The best-informed circles hold that the following are the chief reasons which led Emperor William and his advisers to begin the offensive movement, which may soon spread from the North Sea to Switzerland.

1—To offset the long-heralded Spring drive of the allies, for which preparations have been going on all Winter.

2—Germany's failure to crush Russia and establish peace with that country.

3—Political effect upon Greece and Rumania, both of which are now wavering.

4—Prevent transportation of troops into Greece for an allied offensive against the German, Bulgarian and Austrian forces in Servia.

5—To offset the Russian victories in Armenia and Persia.

6—To win a decisive victory at Verdun, and thus elevate the prestige of the Crown Prince.

7—Moral influence at home and abroad, as showing that Germany is not nearing exhaustion as regards men and munitions.

It is understood that both Field Marshal von Hindenburg and General von Falkenhayn urged an attack against Russia instead of the allies, but they were overruled by the Kaiser.

SAYS T. R. IS 'MAN OF STEEL' NEEDED

That under President Wilson's foreign policy the American flag has been trampled under foot, the country has lost its power to protect its citizens and has lost its prestige before the entire nation of the world, were the charges made against the Wilson administration today by Grafton D. Cushing, former Lieutenant-Governor, in a speech before the Young Men's Republican Club at the American House.

Mr. Cushing said that the country took a chance when it elected "a cyclist, professor with only a brief training in public affairs and that it was President Wilson's misfortune, rather than his fault, that he was not chosen to lead the nation in such dangerous times.

He will support Theodore Roosevelt for President, he said, because the country needs a "man of steel" at its head. Mr. Cushing said:

"We are facing one of the most critical periods in the history of our country, a crisis brought about largely by our own carelessness and neglect. We have failed to pay any attention to the experience of the rest of the world, and are willing to entrust our most serious affairs to untrained men.

"But I think a new spirit is beginning to move in the land, and I look for a stirring of a rebirth of the old American spirit and the beginning of an understanding of what the country may be obliged to face.

"There is no ordinary election that is coming. At this time there are only two men, to my mind, who have the experience, the training and the knowledge of foreign affairs and of foreign statesmen. Those two men are Theodore Roosevelt and Elihu Root."

COMPANY FINED $430 IN EGG CASES

The Shawmut Egg Company, a wholesale distributor at No. 142 Fulton street, Boston, was fined $430 as a corporation in East Boston District Court today after being adjudged guilty of selling unfit eggs on two counts and selling eggs improperly marked on two counts.

John Gunstmanchin of No. 87 London street, East Boston, was fined $7 in the same court for selling shortweight coal. On February 26 he sold 35 pounds for a 100-pound order.

The egg and coal cases were results of a vigorous drive made in the East Boston field by the city health authorities and the office of the city sealer of weights and measures, Patrolman George H. McCaffrey, attached to the health office, was complainant in the egg cases. The shortweight coal case was prosecuted by James J. McDonald of the sealer's staff.

The Shawmut Egg Company was represented by John Weaver Sherman, attorney. It pleaded not guilty and appealed. It was held in $500.

The complaints on which Judge Barnes decided it guilty and the fines imposed were:

February 16—Selling eight dozen eggs unfit for food to an East Boston retail customer, $500.

February 17—Selling fifteen dozen unfit eggs, $200.

February 16—Selling twenty-eight dozen cold storage eggs with container not properly marked, $10.

February 17—Selling fifteen dozen cold storage eggs not properly marked, $20.

COUPLE TAKEN ON POLYGAMY CHARGE

While he embraced his second wife and showered her with kisses, Frank H. Gibson, forty-five, wanted in West Chester, Pa., charged with polygamy, declared in the Municipal Court today that he would go to prison for twenty years before he would return to live with his first wife. His loving caresses were returned.

Gibson and Adeline Robinson Gibson were arrested in a south end lodging house. They had been followed to Boston by police from West Chester. He said he would fight extradition if it were not for the fact that "his little girl" would have to remain in prison as he was not in a position to secure bail for her.

In court, Gibson said he loved as a second wife, who is twenty-one, died the cases here against Gibson and his second wife were filed, they were turned over to the police from West Chester, who had a fugitive warrant for their arrest. They were ushered to a train and to West Chester.

The Pennsylvania police say that Gibson was married for the first time in 1905, and that he married his present wife last month.

FILM STARS TO SELECT BEAUTY

More than 4,000 persons are expected to be present at the Charity and "Movie" ball of the Salem Lodge of Elks, at which the most beautiful girl in the city will be selected by leading picture stars.

The ball will be held in the State armory tomorrow night. The Misses Labadie and Hulette, with Paul Panzer and Wayne Arey have promised to attend. An attempt is being made to secure the attendance of two other stars, Anita Stewart and Lillian Walker.

The Salem Cadet Band will furnish music, and after the beauty contest a banquet will be given.

ALEXANDER GETS COURT HOUSE JOB

Winthrop Alexander, employed in the construction department of the city of Boston, was appointed today superintendent of the Suffolk Court House at a salary of $2,500. There were fifty applicants for the position left vacant by Henry Silver. Impression prevailed that the position would go to Richard Walsh of Ward 8, who was the candidate recommended by sheriff Quinn.

The appointment was made by the justices of the Superior Court and is practically a life position.

BLAME CABARETS FOR SLAYING BY BRIDE

By International News Service.

Fort Worth, Tex., March 1.—On the question of the age of Mrs. Charles Harrison, the girl bride who slew W. L. Warren, to "avenge her honor," depends the disposition of her case. She says she is fifteen years old. The statement was made today that she is eighteen.

Two persons say they will try to prove she is not a minor, and therefore not entitled to the protection the Texas law gives minors who have committed homicide. They are John Warren, father of the dead man, and Mrs. J. N. Taylor, his sister.

Mrs. Harrison appeared before the Grand Jury and told how she killed Warren. Her recital was a repetition of her confession of last Saturday. Her appearance and manner indicated unconcern to those who saw her. The Grand Jury is expected to report on the case within a day or two.

Mrs. Burlingame, Mrs. Bessie Tackett, asserted that efforts to prove the bride more than fifteen would be fruitless.

She blamed the modern pursuit of pleasure for the trouble which had fallen her daughter. She said:

"There is too much drinking, dancing, cabarets, and I must admit, too much immodest dress in this country.

"These conditions, falsely supposed to bring pleasure, in reality bring only sorrow. Young men and young women worship before the shrine of lustful selfish pleasure. Is it any wonder they fall?

This man Warren was a cabaret habitue. His hotel was little more than a resort for those who seek the pleasures of the cabaret. To the men who frequent such places the ruin of a young girl is an every-day incident.

Licenses has become more or less a custom in this country. See what this life has done for my own daughter. She had a good heart, she was careful to avoid the evils and pitfalls which beset the path of young girls, and yet she was ensnared.

The result—broken hearts and death. Why can't something be done to stop all this?

Katherine Warren, secluded in the home of her father-in-law, James Harrison, the banker, said:

"You've published too much already," said Mr. Harrison to reporters. "She is here and will stay here, but you can't see her."

A delegation of women from the First Christian Church called on the elder Mrs. Harrison. They found her ill in bed from worry. Nearby, dressed in kimono and nothing else, sleeping, was Katherine, apparently free from care.

Judge Erner of New York Dead.

Rochester, N. Y., March 1.—Judge William E. Erner of the Court of Appeals died today. He was sixty-one years old.

LABOR UPHELD IN HIGH COURT DECISION

Another important decision affecting the status of the workingman, was made by the full bench of the Supreme Court today in affirming the finding of the Industrial Accident Board to the effect that a workingman is justified in going to the roof of the building where he is employed in search of fresh air while he is at work.

The court ordered the Casualty Company of America to pay to Mrs. Clara C. Von Ette, widow of George C. Von Ette, a compositor who was killed by a fall from the roof of the Globe building, $10 a week for 300 weeks, beginning June 22, 1914.

Von Ette had been employed on the Globe for five years up to June 21, 1914, when he was killed. In its finding the board said:

"Sometime towards midnight of June 21, or early in the morning of June 22, the employe went from the room where he was working, the room being hot and work being slack, to the roof of the Devonshire street building, which is part of the Globe premises, he being in need of fresh air, and that while on this roof he accidentally walked over the edge or became dizzy and slipped off into the area and fell to his death.

"We find that an action on the roof he was acting within the scope of his employment and that death was the result of injuries arising out of and in the course of his employment. We find that he did not commit suicide and was not under the influence of liquor."

"COUNT" DELANEY ON WAY TO BOSTON

48 U. S. SHIPS BUILT IN MONTH

Washington, March 1.—Forty-eight vessels were built in the United States last month, with a total tonnage of 26,103, according to the Bureau of Navigation. Many of the new ships were of steel construction and will be used in coastwise trade. One vessel added to American registry was of foreign construction—the Choctaw, of 707 gross tons, built at Sunderland, Eng.

SAYS HOT WATER WASHES POISONS FROM THE LIVER

Everyone should drink hot water with phosphate in it, before breakfast.

To feel as fine as the proverbial fiddle, we must keep the liver washed clean, almost every morning, to prevent its sponge-like pores from clogging with indigestible material, sour bile and poisonous toxins, says a noted physician.

If you get headaches, it's your liver. If you catch cold easily, it's your liver. If you wake up with a bad taste, furred tongue, nasty breath or stomach becomes rancid, it's your liver. Sallow skin, muddy complexion, watery eyes, all denote liver uncleanliness. Your liver is the most important, also the most abused and neglected organ of the body. Few know its function or how to release the stagnant, sup body waste, bile and toxins. Most folks resort to violent calomel, which is a dangerous, salivating chemical which can only be used occasionally because it accumulates in the tissues, also attacks the bones.

Every man and woman, sick or well, should drink each morning, before breakfast, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, to wash from the liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, the poisons, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Limestone phosphate does not restrict the diet like calomel, because it cannot salivate, for it is harmless and you can eat anything afterwards. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless and any pharmacist will sell you a quarter pound which is sufficient for a demonstration of how hot water and limestone phosphate cleans, stimulates and freshens the liver, keeping you feeling fit day in and day out.—Advertisement.

IF BACK HURTS TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Says Backache is sure sign you have been eating too much meat.

Uric Acid in meat clogs Kidneys and irritates the bladder.

Many folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless, inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.—Advertisement

PROVEN SWAMP-ROOT AIDS WEAK KIDNEYS

The symptoms of kidney and bladder troubles are often very distressing and leave the system in a run-down condition. If kidneys seem to suffer most, as almost every victim complains of lame back and urinary troubles which should not be neglected, as these danger signals often lead to dangerous kidney troubles.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root which soon heals and strengthens the kidneys is a splendid kidney, liver and bladder remedy, and, being an herbal compound, has a gentle healing effect on the kidneys which is almost immediately noticed in most cases by those who use it.

A trial will convince anyone who may be in need of it. Better get a bottle from your nearest drug store, and start treatment at once.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention the Boston Daily American.—Advertisement.

2 ALARMS FOR FIRE IN SOUTH BOSTON

The overheating of a large bottle of pitch caused a spectacular fire in the Daniel Russell Belt Works at Nos. 93-97 Boston street, South Boston, today.

The blaze spread rapidly from the main boiler room on the ground floor, and the flames were shooting high out of the second story window when the firemen arrived.

Owing to the fact that thousands of dollars' worth of wool is stored in the Edison storehouse, directly behind the Russell plant, which is a two-story structure, a second alarm was sent in. However, the department prevented the fire from spreading.

Fifty men at work in the Russell shop fled for their lives. One report stated that the huge pot of pitch tipped over, but this was denied, and it was said that it merely became overheated and set fire to the woodwork in that way.

The firemen fought the flames from adjoining roofs, and had the fire under control inside of an hour. Workers in adjoining buildings were ordered out by the firemen, as it was feared for some time that either the Edison warehouse or one of the other buildings would be caught in the sweep of the flames.

No one was hurt and the police place the loss of the machinery and the main part of the building at approximately $15,000.

SEEK TO FASTEN WOMAN'S DEATH ON ROBBER

Singer prints of Albert Saunders and Frank Sydney, both colored, who are held charged with the robbery of the home of Miss Helen M. Crane of Auburndale, will be taken by the police in an attempt to connect the men with the murder of Mrs. Sarah Haynes of Delle avenue, Roxbury.

Mrs. Haynes was brutally murdered in the doorway of her home on the night of December 6. The only clews were bloody finger prints on the door casing and the statement of a young woman that she saw a colored man in the vicinity on the night in question.

Both men deny any connection with the crime, but Sydney, who is said by the police to be Joseph J. Frye of Westminster street, Roxbury, admitted that he was in Roxbury on the night of the murder.

Special Officers Charles J. Wallace and Michael J. Harrington, who have been working on the Haynes murder, went to the East Cambridge jail to see the two men with the idea that they might have had something to do with the woman's death.

Wallace claims that while talking with the prisoners Sydney or Frye admitted that he went to the Crane home to secure sufficient money to pay a fine in the Roxbury court next Friday, where he was to appear to answer a complaint of violating the liquor law. Frye is said to have confessed to holding Miss Crane while his partner tied her, and that his partner had a gun which they did not intend to use.

WOMAN ARRESTED.

Mrs. Bertha Bonney, a negress, thirty, of Westminster street, Roxbury, was arrested, charged with being an accessory to the robbery of the home of Miss Crane, during which Miss Crane and her aged companion, Miss Hannah M. Farrington, were brutally attacked. Mrs. Bonney was employed two days a week by Miss Crane to do her washing and ironing. The negress was to be arraigned today.

Saunders and Sydney pleaded guilty to the charge of robbery. They were each held in $20,000 for the grand jury. Saunders told the police that the scheme was that of Mrs. Bonney's. He said that he and Sydney met at the home of Mrs. Bonney, and claimed that she gave them full directions for reaching the Crane home. The directions, the police state, were found written in a diary in the pocket of Sydney this morning.

WOMAN IS HELD.

Mrs. Bonney was arraigned in the Newton court today as an accessory to the robbery, and pleaded not guilty. At the request of the police her case was continued until March 11, and she was held in bonds of $1,000. He/Pe unable to secure bail the woman was remanded to jail.

Although Miss Crane was reported as recovering from the effects of the terrible beating which she and her companion, Miss Hannah Farrington, received at the hands of the negroes, it was stated last evening that grave fears are felt for her recovery.

Miss Farrington, who fought desperately with the men, is also badly bruised and beaten.

William H. Crane, the injured woman's sister brother, is now playing in New York, and when he heard of the trouble he canceled his engagements, but resumed them on receipt of a message from his sister, telling him not to come on, as she was not so seriously ill as to warrant his taking that step.

He also telegraphed to the Newton officials that it was his wish that the case against the men be pushed to the limit, and that no expense or energy be spared in securing the maximum penalty for the crime.

LADY ABERDEEN HELPS AT SALE

Lady Aberdeen, whose sojourn in Boston last Fall was such a feature of the society calendar, will join with several Boston women of prominence in an exhibition and sale of Irish convent laces and embroideries at the Copley-Plaza hotel on Thursday, March 9.

The patronesses and those in charge of the sale booths will include Mrs. James Dwight, Mrs. Mary A. Corcoran, Mrs. P. A. O'Connell, Mrs. W. W. Taff, Mrs. M. F. O'Riordan, Miss Julia Prendergast, Mrs. John T. Bottomley, Mrs. Lucy C. Keefe and Mrs. James J. Phelan.

The sale collection is notable. Exquisite and intricate designs will be offered. They were sent to this country especially for this sale. Neck fixings, opera cloaks, tea-cozey covers, cushions, handbags, fans and other lace work and embroideries will be ready for the Boston purses.

Lady Aberdeen is keenly interested in developing the American market for these beautiful goods, especially since the war has made the European demand fall off.

HELD IN ANSONIA DOUBLE TRAGEDY

New York, March 1.—Charged with complicity in the killing of two men in Ansonia, Ct., Paole Venone, a candy manufacturer, was arrested at his home, No. 309 East Thirty-ninth street, today. Acting on advice from Ansonia, Detectives Digilio and Landvoi took Venone in custody.

SUPPER TONIGHT AT PARKER MEMORIAL

The fourth annual inter-settlement supper will be held at Parker Memorial Hall, No. 53 Berkeley street, at 7:30 this evening. There will be dancing in the upper hall after the supper. George C. Greener will be toastmaster. Woodrun Noyes, Libby S. Richard and P. C. Defriese will speak.

Chicago Planing Mill Burned.

Chicago, March 1.—The planing mill and lathe shops of the Lockwood & Strickland sash and door factory were destroyed by fire early today. The loss was $100,000.

March Comes in Like a Lamb; Mercury Rising

The weather indications today were that Miss Lambkin has used her Leap Year privilege to propose to Brother March and had been accepted.

It was extremely gloomy yesterday—the Leap Year Day—what March would act by us. Would he come in with a meek-like meekness or a Hon-like roar?

Today showed the lamb-like side, comparatively speaking. The Boston temperature at 6 a. m. was 19 degrees above zero. It rose to 27 degrees by 10 o'clock and was still climbing. This was several degrees warmer than yesterday.

The air was clear and invigorating.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a listless look in your face—dull eyes without sparkle.

Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent. of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective.

They bring about that exhilaration of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

You will know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets by their olive color. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

OUR YOUNG WOMEN

are often subject to headache—are languid, pale and nervous—because their blood is thin or insufficient; they lack that ambition and vivacity which is their birthright. Above all they need the tonic and nourishment in Scott's Emulsion that makes richer blood, fills hollow cheeks, suppresses nervousness and establishes strength. Nourishment alone makes blood and Scott's Emulsion is pure, concentrated nourishment, free from wines or opiates.

If mother or daughter is frail, pale or nervous, give her Scott's for one month and see the betterment. It has a wholesome, "nutty" flavor. Avoid substitutes.

By JOHN W. MORAN, JR.

TONIGHT Harvard Club and the Arena Hockey Club meet in a "grudge match" at the Arena. Hockey Fans will remember that on the occasion of the last meeting between this pair Arena won, 11 goals to 2. Harvard Club is bent upon wiping out the defeat.

The Arena seven demonstrated in its last meeting with the Crimson that if it so desires it can play better hockey than almost any team in the country. Many experts have it ranked with the St. Nicholas seven, while others have even been so bold as to declare that the Arena has it on the wonderful New York seven.

Ralph Winsor, the man who made hockey a major sport at Harvard, also coaches the Harvard club seven. Now that he is released from coaching the Harvard varsity he has more time to devote to the club team and consequently it is expected to make a much better showing tonight against the Arena than was apparent at the time of the last meeting.

Fred Rocque has taken the Arena squad to task as a result of its defeat by B. A. A. last Saturday night. Rocque has told the players he will not stand for anything but the best in hockey. In tonight's game Norman Small will be back in goal for the St. Botolph street seven. Each team is out for the spoils and it should prove one of the best games of the year.

Gives Up College to Become Giant

Hanover, N. H., March 1.—Henry W. Wacker of New York, a member of the sophomore class of Dartmouth College, gave up his studies today to join the New York Nationals on their Spring training trip.

Wacker pitched for the Dartmouth freshmen last season, but was ineligible for the varsity team this year because of semi-professional baseball, which he played last Summer.

B. A. A. Wins in Rough Game in New York

New York, March 1.—The Boston A. A. hockey seven gained an additional length on the St. Nicholas team in the Amateur Hockey race by defeating the Hockey Club of New York by the decisive tally of 8 goals to 2.

The visitors outclassed the local players and the game was never in doubt after Jones shot the B. A. A.'s first goal in 7:04. Jones scored a second goal in the first period, while Huntington also shot the puck past Goaltend Lewis.

In the second half Osgood scored three goals and Jones, Peabody and Hutchinson each one for the visitors. The game was very rough in spots and as a result of "football" work Dufresne, Grovat and Paton were ruled off the ice. In addition to this punishment the Boston players undertook to revenge themselves, keeping Dufresne in a sitting position on the ice a large part of the time.

Dufresne retaliated by cross-checking Osgood so severely the blond Bostonian was laid flat for several seconds. Smith of the Hockey Club was also tumbled in the same way.

Late in the second period Peabody and Lewis of the Hockey Club clashed in front of the cage and Lewis made a swing at the Boston player, but that did not prevent Peabody from scoring the last goal of the game.

RINDGE SEVEN BAGS GAME

Rindge Tech vanquished Cambridge Latin, 2-1, in their Interscholastic Hockey League game, played on the Charles River, near the Anderson bridge. Shea and Mulrey shot goals for the winners, while O'Connell counted for the losers.

Griffiths Runs Up a Shade on Matt Wells

Columbus, O., March 1.—Lightweight Johnny Griffiths of Akron, shaded Matt Wells of England, in a fast twelve-round bout last night. The Ohioan won four rounds, while the Englishman took one, the balance being even.

Griffiths kept sending hard left hooks to Wells's face and ribs, while Wells countered with speedy jabs. It was a hard, fast bout from first to last, and both boxers were well used up at the close.

THE RABBITS' COLUMN

By Walter J. Morarville

HORTSTOP OF THE BRAVES

Well, my trunk is packed and I am ready and waiting for the getaway. I shall meet the Boston bunch at the Hotel Breslin in New York, Friday morning. Then the boat and the Southland.

Bill Sweeney is certainly a hustler. I feel much better now that I know I am in on that $500 per privilege. Like the fellow who said, "I can get hurt, I'm insured."

Marty McHale will work hard to show Manager Carrigan he has a "spitball." The Maine boy will be given every opportunity to remain in the big league.

* * *

Baseball fans will watch with considerable interest the coming season to see if Sam Agnew, who will catch for the Red Sox, can hold Ty Cobb from stealing as many bases as he did last season. Ty grabbed many a base off Agnew in 1915.

* * *

Benny Kauff has his work cut out for him when he attempts to prove himself in a class with Ty Cobb. If he comes close he will be stamped as a wonderful performer. Ty is, in my opinion, still in a class by himself. The rivalry, however, will stimulate interest in both leagues and furnish additional copy for the sporting writers.

* * *

The only thing the Chicago clubs have overlooked when completing their Spring training trip arrangements is in not announcing that Charlie Chaplin would entertain the boys on the way South.

* * *

Agnew is another boy who evidently means to show Owner Lannin something. His desire to go to Hot Springs ahead of the others proves his desire.

* * *

President Tenor, aside from being an old baseball player, is some fan. It will be interesting to watch to see if he gets out on the field when he visits the Southern camps, as he intends to do. President Haughton will, I understand, take a daily workout.

RALPH FINALLY LOSES.

Chicago, March 1.—In the pocket billiard championship tournament "Red" Layton of Sedalia, Mo., defeated Edward Ralph of Hightstown, N. J., 100-67, and Morris L. Fink of Philadelphia won from J. L. Chapman of Chicago, 100-63.

Special Section For Fair Sex at Big Fight

New York, March 1.—The presence of a dozen or more women at Jess Willard's training quarters at the Pioneer A. C. while the champion has been going through his stunts caused him to set aside every Friday afternoon as "ladies' day."

The first "ladies' day" will be on Friday afternoon of this week, beginning at 2:30 o'clock. Not only will Willard go through his training routine, but Johnny Ertle, the bantamweight champion, will also be on exhibition.

Since it was announced that a section had been reserved for women and their escorts at the Willard-Moran bout, at Madison Square Garden, March 25, the interest shown in boxing by women in New York has been surprising, according to the ticket sellers.

A few month's ago the presence of a woman at the ticket office of the Garden looking for pasteboards was unheard of. Every day now women walk up to the window and buy seats for the big fight.

Few women have attended boxing bouts in New York, but the Willard-Moran battle may establish a fad.

KAUFF DEMANDING A BONUS OF $10,000

New York, March 1.—Benny Kauff, the Ty Cobb of the defunct Federal League was billed to start for Marlin, Tex., Friday, claims he will not report to manager McGraw until he has received a $10,000 bonus, $5,000 from the New York club and $5,000 from Harry Sinclair, who sold him to the Giants.

BASEBALL BY WIRE

St. Louis, March 1.—Outfielder Vincent Campbell, with the Newark Feds last season, has signed with the Brown Sox.

Worcester, March 1.—Jesse Burkett, who accepted terms a week ago to manage the Lawrence (Eastern League) club, signed his contract yesterday.

Portland, Me., March 1.—John L. Winship, manager of Portland's first club in the old New England League and a former sporting editor, died after a month's illness at his home here. He was seventy-two years old.

Chicago, March 1.—President Weegham of the Cubs made Roger Bresnahan an offer yesterday in settlement of his unfinished contract and the deposed manager stated he would either accept or reject it today.

Macon, Ga., March 1.—The second squad of Yankees reported to Manager Donovan last night. Lee Magee, Hartzell, Pecklnpaugh, Gilhooley and Pipp were included in the party.

Moran Weighs 205 After Lake Frolic

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., March 1.—Frank Moran, the heavyweight aspirant for championship honors, and his trainer, Willie Lewis, were out on Saratoga Lake skating for an hour before breakfast. Going into Luther's Hotel just long enough for a rubdown and to eat, both returned to the sport on the ice and remained there until nearly noon. Ice boating is the latest training fad and Moran goes at it like a schoolboy turned loose.

Moran weighed 205 pounds this morning and after his rubdown agreed in fine shape.

JACK McCARTHY IS TIDY LOOKER AT B. C.

Coach Bill Sweeney gave the Boston College battery candidates a stiff workout in the gym yesterday afternoon, Jack McCarthy of Cambridge is shaping up well, and although rather light, has good speed and control. Leo Haloran is the best looker among the veterans. Captain Joe Dee, Jim Crowley and "Buck" Donnelley are doing the bulk of the receiving work.

MARTEL WINS TITLE FROM ARCHIE WALSH

Lowell, March 1.—Chester Martel of Lowell, won the candlepin championship of New England by defeating Archie Walsh of Boston in the final half of their 70-string match, 1050-1048. Martel vanquished Walsh by a total of 36 pins.

SAYLOR ALIVE, BUT NOT OUT OF DANGER

Indianapolis, Ind., March 1.—Milburn (Young) Saylor, lightweight fighter, ill of pneumonia, was still alive today though in a state of coma. Physicians think the crisis will be reached tonight.

CURTAINS ON GO IN SIXTH

Frankie Nelson Quits in That Stanza with Freddie Yelle—Byers Outsteps Farren.

FREDDIE YELLE, the elongated Taunton lightweight, generally rated just about New England's premier lightweight at this stage of the game, had a soft time of it, per expectations, in his bout with Frankie Nelson, the Class Q Brooklynite, at the Armory A. A.'s show at the Hippodrome, last night.

Nelson, after shading Yelle a trifle in the first and second rounds, had his famous bum left peeper split wide open in the fourth. Thereafter he boxed wholly on the defensive.

Pulling a bogus fourth and fifth round, Nelson scarcely fought a lick in the sixth, and with time all but up Al McMurray, his manager, threw the towel into the ring. Then and there the curtain descended on one of the gamest and most unsatisfactory sottos of the season.

The new scale of assessments, fifty cents to two dollars, brought out a fairly hulky bunch of members. 'Twas a good house, but no turnaway, to borrow a showshop term. The club might have broken even on the performance. But that's all.

Nelson wasn't expected to give Yelle much of a fight, so his poor performance didn't upset the dope.

In the semi-windup Charley Byers, showing a heap more aggressiveness than usual, had a distinct shade on Joe Farren from first to last and well merited Maffi Flaherty's verdict.

George Brooks of Cambridge, subbing for Tommy Flanagan, appeared to have run up a sufficiently wide lead on Willie Green of South Boston to stick in the big award, but Phil Powers thought the latter had done the cleaner and most efficient milling and decided in his favor. Powers' verdict proved anything but popular.

In the curtain-raiser, Johnny Donovan, the promising South Boston boy, kept on his winning streak by vanquishing Young Farren. Donovan stood fully a head taller over his opponent. The latter fought gamely, and "flashed" for a short while in the windup, but Donovan was entitled to the decision and received it.

The Roosevelt of August was the hot heat upon forty-million Americans like a burning blanket. The Summer Capital at Oyster Bay, in the eastern county of North America, was visited by not under any mercy in the afternoon. I made my appearance on board the Corsair with the full assurance that I was not to be one of the roasting ox with the 2 lbs. or three pound sirloin with 1 bad.

If you cannot do this it is proof that either one or both eyes are defective or that you are now wearing incorrect glasses. In either case you require the immediate attention of a Specialist in Optometry. If you cannot qualify on these eye tests and are troubled with headache, eye strain may be the cause. If so happened that Fatimas were originally "Made and blended for the King of Whatis"—would that fact prove that you were going to like Fatimas best?

It would not.

A man's taste is his own. A cigarette that might delight some old potentate's palate would not necessarily please you.

That's why we leave Fatimas up to your taste.

But there is something more than good taste that is mighty important to you.

No matter how good-tasting a cigarette may be—it can only be the SENSIBLE cigarette for you if it is comfortable, too.

Its pure tobacco must be cool and comfortable to your throat at all times. And it must leave you feeling fine and fit at the end of a hard-smoking day.

Will it do all that?

THE BLOWS THAT WIN FIGHTS By JESS WILLARD

World's Champion, Who Meets Frank Moran March 25. He Tells How He Won the Title in an Exclusive Article

IN NEXT SUNDAY'S BOSTON AMERICAN

Bringing Up Father

Copyright, 1914, International News Service—Registered United States Patent Office.

By George McManus

Willard Making a Hit With Jess No Longer 'Green'

By FRANK G. MENKE.
Sporting Editor of the International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 1. — Jess Willard looks—and acts—like a real champion in his workouts here for his ten-round quarrel with Frank Moran March 26.

"The champ stole some of Jack Johnson's stuff, that's what he did," ventured bystanders at Willard's workout in Gotham. And that's the opinion among the "experts" who look him over daily in action.

The Willard of today exhibits cleverness far beyond that which he showed when he snatched the heavyweight crown from the black man's dome in Havana nearly eleven months ago.

He is much faster than he was in Cuba, despite the fact that he now is a bit bulky amidships and slightly soft in the arms and shoulders. He has become quite shifty, too, and sees blocking, ducking and feinting methods that Johnson seemed to have copyrighted.

KEPT IN CONSTANT TRAINING.

"Did you train in secret and learn a few of Johnson's tricks?" Willard was asked.

The heavyweight king grinned, and said:

"Well, I'll answer that by saying that I have never quit training since the day I beat Johnson. It hasn't been a strenuous training; just enough to keep me in shape. I don't suppose the public knew that I was doing some work every day, and that's why so many wild stories got around about my weighing anywhere from 260 pounds to half a ton.

"Fighting is my profession. I aimed to become the best in my line and so, naturally, I have tried to develop speed and cleverness. How well I have succeeded is something for the spectators to decide."

IS A CONFIDENT CHAP.

Probably the most striking change in Willard is that he has acquired confidence in himself. Before he became champion he always was mantled with an air of a man not sure of himself; who fears that the worst is going to happen—and looks for it to happen.

But Willard now is a confident youth—though not conceited. He feels within himself that he is the best man in the fighting game today—but he doesn't insist upon you feeling the same way about it.

Willard has acquired a fat stash since the Johnson fight. In the other years of his career he used his left almost wholly for jabbing purposes, reserving the right for the "clean up" wallop. That's what he did in the Johnson fracas. But now Willard is in our midst with a left hand punch that seems to have the same crushing force that is behind his right.

"I hold Moran in high regard," said Willard. "I think he's the one man in the ring who is entitled to a chance at the title—and that's why he's getting it. I realize that Moran has a powerful right hand, but I am developing a defence which I feel will turn back those attacks."

BIG JESS' TRAINING SCHEDULE.

Willard's training schedule calls for a three to six-mile jaunt in the morning through and around parts of Central Park. This exhibition is free to all who happen to be in the neighborhood.

But it costs "two bits" to see the champion stage his afternoon sketch at the Pioneer A. C. Some folks figured that it wasn't quite clubby to charge so much money to see a fighter in training, but Tom Jones, the managerial person, retorts by saying that such an exhibition would be cheap at a dollar a head.

Soccer Shots.

SOCCER League officials who in addition to presiding over meetings of sectional bodies, acting as secretaries and so forth should remember that the sport is yet in its infancy and needs all the boosting possible. This column would recommend to Edward F. Duffy, chairman of the national press committee and at present acting as secretary because of the illness of Secretary Cahill, that he co-operate with all the press.

* * *

SOCCER is a game that is of interest to persons in all sections of the State, and is receiving more than a small share of the space on sporting pages of the big city papers. It would be fair to all that all the papers receive the news for dissemination rather than that it be reserved for one or two suburban papers and one Boston paper.

CHAIRMAN KEANE of the N. C. C. C., and President Schofield of the Northern Massachusetts and New Hampshire State organizations can profit by this bit of advice as well as all others. The AMERICAN prints soccer news and asks its full share of the information to be given out.

THE Fall River Rovers' team was held up by fog last Friday while on their journey to Philadelphia to play the twice postponed game with Disstons in the America cup series. Philadelphia, fans were quite put out at first, but a telegram from Manager Crooks soon settled the affair.

WEATHER permitting the Rovers will meet the New Bedford F. C. on the latter's grounds next Saturday to settle the supremacy of Massachusetts teams, as also to qualify in the semi-final round in the national cup series. This game promises to be a battle royal, and the committee of the U. S. F. A. realizing this have appointed the reliable Fred Houghton to be referee.

GREEN NINE CLEANS UP.

Ithaca, N. Y., March 1—Dartmouth's basket-ball five won its Intercollegiate League game from Cornell, 29-24.

Championship Track Meet at Providence

Providence, March 1.—Following the holding of the N. E. A. A. U. championships at Boston Saturday night, New England's next big indoor track meet is scheduled for this city, when the Armory Athletic Association holds its eighth annual set of games on Saturday night, March 11. Track and field stars from all sections of the East are expected to compete in the various open events.

In addition to events that are open to all registered amateur athletes, the program calls for special relay races, Brown University interclass relays, military championship of Rhode Island and Rhode Island interscholastic championships senior and junior.

Registered amateurs may enter in the 50-yard and 440-yard dashes, the mile, putting the eight-pound shot and running high jump. The same events are scheduled for the military championship, and in addition a half-mile run, 50-yard low hurdles, relay race, each runner to go 176 yards, and novice 50-yard dash and 600-yard run.

The junior interscholastic championship, which is open to boys under seventeen years of age, lists 50-yard dash, quarter and half-mile runs, shot put, running high jump, 50-yard low hurdles and relay race, with each runner to go 176 yards. The seniors run the same events, and in addition a mile run with the relay racers each to go 352 yards.

In the interscholastic championship the high school scoring the most points receives custody of the B. F. Keith trophy, and the school making the fastest time in the senior relay will receive the M. W. Norton trophy. For one to compete in the military championship he must hold membership in some military organization in Rhode Island. Entries close Monday, March 6, with Captain F. K. Edgecomb at No. 32 Custom House street, Providence.

The fight for the interscholastic championship will centre around the athletes from Means Brown School and those representing Providence Technical High. Battery A and the First and Fourth Companies will be the contenders for the military championship. An added feature may be a relay race between Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Brown. A. W. Gorton of Means Brown School, the lad who broke the New England interscholastic record for 1,000 yards, will be a competitor.

NEW BEDFORD SCENE OF N. E. TITLE GAME

The soccer championship of New England lies at stake in New Bedford Saturday, when the Whalers meet the Fall River Rovers in a fourth-round game of the National Challenge Cup series. They are the only two teams left from the 25 who entered from this section, and besides the New England title the winner will enter the semi-final for the national championship.

Soccer lovers from every city in New England are expected to attend in large numbers and the crowd is expected to reach 400. Fred Houghton, of Lawrence, will referee.

GREENFIELD A. A. TO STAGE BOUTS

Greenfield, March 1.—A general entertainment will be given by the Greenfield Athletic Club for its members on the night of March 7. In addition to a lengthy vaudeville program the committee have arranged a series of boxing matches between some of New England's leading boxers. Dave Powers and Terry Brooks, Cy Goodwin and Charley Byers and Willie Green and Kid Lee will furnish the boxing part of the program.

ALBANY BALL CLUB SOLD FOR $4,000

Albany, March 1.—Charles M. Winchester, owner of the Albany club of the New York State Baseball League, has sold the club to Dr. F. N. Tate of Albany for $4,000.

The transaction included only the franchise and players. Dr. Tate announced that he had leased Chadwick Park for the coming season.

Basket Ball

TONIGHT'S the big night for Roxbury Neighborhood House Members. Their five clashes with the crack Shawmut team and among the members of the club there is a strong feeling that Stretch's five will win. Devins McTish will be on hand to lead the cheering, also to offer words of advice to his former charges.

* * *

M'TISH called this morning to say that during his trip through Missouri he saw many opportunities for a strong professional basketball five. As a result it would not be at all surprising if in another season the former star leads a delegation into the Southwest.

* * *

AFTER tonight's clash Shawmuts will devote their attention to preparing for the St. John's Literary series. The first game of that series is scheduled for Tuesday, March 7. The Cambridge five will have Reinkert, Finn, Chapman, Connell, Carroll, Bowles, Callinan and O'Connor to pick their team from.

* * *

SHAWMUTS will be in the game with their regular lineup and will have as subs Paddy Grant, the West End star, and Ambrose Wing. Billy Laughlin of the Shawmuts regulars clashes with Chapman of the St. John's five for will fly. In Roxbury the impression is prevalent that Laughlin has something on Chapman.

* * *

NATE HURWITZ, the Shawmuts' captain, certainly gives himself plenty to do. He plays forward for Company B and in the backfield for the Shawmuts. These changes certainly keep him up in all departments of the game.

* * *

JIM CROWLEY, who plays a pivotal position for Company M of Milford, is regarded as in a class by himself at that position.

THE undefeated C. H. Collins team of the West End is anxious to arrange games with strong 95-100-pound teams in and around Boston. Address George Segal, West End House, Boston.

THE Fenno A. A. five is anxious to arrange games with fast teams away from home for March 7, 14, 21 and 28. Address Manager Philip Leader.

* * *

THE Unknowns, cousins to the Masked Marvels, would like to hear from fast 125-pound teams in or around Boston. The teams must be strictly amateur. Address Daniel Reilly, No. 32 Harrison avenue.

GILLOOLY OUSTED AS TRINITY HEAD

Hartford, Ct., March 1.—Edward J. McKay, 1917, of Norwich, Ct., has been elected captain of Trinity College baseball team. He succeeds Dennis A. Gilooly of Wallingford, who is adjudged ineligible under Trinity new athletic code as he played last Summer with the Colonial League in New England.

Captain McKay is a junior, an unusual honor for a member of that class, and will probably captain the nine for two seasons.

Waivers Go on Four Red Sox Players

President J. J. Lannin of the World's Champions announced today that he had received notification that four of his players had passed through the waivers on the waiver route.

These men are Catchers Cady and Thomas and Pitchers Ray Collins and Joe Wood. The owner of the Red Sox, having so many catchers, felt that he could afford to take a chance with putting these men through the National League, having assurance that the American League clubs would waive.

This means that Catchers Cady and Thomas are on the market either for a minor league proposition or in a trade with money for some player that Manager Carrigan may have his eye upon. There is nothing new in the announcement that Pitchers Wood and Collins had passed through, for it has always been understood for a week or more.

Collins was regarded as a pitcher whose usefulness had passed. Joe Wood of Saturday as being incorrect.

NEW YORK RING TALK

NEW YORK, March 1.—Young Rosner, the New York flyweight, has been matched to meet Jimmy Wilde, who recently won the flyweight championship of Great Britain, and incidentally, the Lord Lonsdale belt, in a 20-round tilt for the title April 24.

THE bout will take place at the stadium in Liverpool Rosner, according to report, is to receive $2,000 guarantee.

JOHN REISLER is out with a sweeping challenge to Harry Pelkie. He offers to bet $5,000 that his light-eight protege, Young Brown, can beat Freddie Welsh in a 10-round bout, or over the longer route if necessary.

Wood's situation is unchanged. He is in a peculiar position. Not a club in either league wants him and he is still unsigned, objecting to the cut in his salary. The club expects that Joe will show up at the Springs and prove to Johnself that the baseball world that he either has or has not a pitching arm.

As nothing to the way of a contract has arrived from Tris Speaker the club regards the announcement of Saturday as being incorrect.

Leominster Has Hard List of Ball Games

Leominster, March 1.—Leominster High's baseball schedule for this season, as arranged by Manager Waldo Suhlke comprises 17 games, the first of which is with Pepperell High here on April 11.

April 18—Pepperell High at Leominster.

The Struggles of a Wife

A New Serial of Absorbing Interest by Virginia Terhune Van de Water

"Why, mother!" Grace Webb exclaimed. "Why are you sitting here all alone?"

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

CHAPTER I.

Copyright Star Company.

Did any woman ever love her home as she loved hers?

Myra Webb asked herself this question, looking about the firelit room. She had been shopping all day, and was weary. To come back to this handsome house and to the surroundings that her soul loved was very pleasant. Somehow it was all sweeter than ever today, she mused. Yet she had had this home long enough to get used to it.

She thought back over the past—the past when, as a girl, she had expected to have to support herself by her pen. When her parents died within a year of each other they had left her even poorer than she had feared she would be, for they had lived right up to their income, which had not been more than enough to supply their needs and give their daughter a good education.

This education had made it possible for her to get the position of secretary to a society leader. In her leisure moments she had written a few short articles, some of which she had sold to a home magazine that had paid only a small sum for them. She had often wondered since then if she might not have made a name for herself if she had been forced to write for her living.

LOVE AND MARRIAGE.

But love and marriage had come to her, so such effort had been unnecessary. Horace Webb had wooed and won her. She had fallen in love entirely and unreservedly. Horace's business was flourishing even at that stage of his career. It had prospered in the years since then. For almost twenty years she had lived luxuriously. They had but one living child. Grace was a sophomore at Barnard College and doing well. Surely no wife and mother had more to make her happy than had she, Myra Webb.

Yet, as she thought on these things, she sighed. For some weeks her intuition had warned her that her husband was straining and perturbed. Once she had asked him what was wrong, but his answer had been such as to make her feel that he would rather not discuss the matter.

"Business is poor," he replied tersely. "I don't want to talk about it, please."

That was his way. He never liked to talk of what worried him or lay near his heart. People who did not know him thought him cold and hard. She knew he was not, for in days gone by she had seen deep into his nature. Yet she sighed again as she wished that he would "talk things out" to her.

ENTER GRACE

The door into the hall opened, and her daughter entered. She was tall, slender and fair, with a quantity of soft, light hair twisted into a coil at the back of her neck. She and the mother looked strangely alike in the uncertain firelight.

"Why, mother!" Grace Webb exclaimed. "Why are you sitting here all alone in the dark? Have you had your tea?"

"No," the woman said confusedly. "I actually forgot to ring for it. I do not believe that Lizzie knows I am in."

The girl switched on the light, then rang the bell.

"We are ready for tea," she said, with the manner of one accustomed to give orders, as the maid appeared.

"You look tired, mother," she observed, when the servant had withdrawn. "What's the matter?"

"I've been shopping," Myra told her. "And," with a little laugh, "I've been sitting here thinking very hard. That accounts for my not having noticed that it was after 5 o'clock."

"Anything wrong?" Grace asked.

"No—that is—nothing in particular," Myra replied. "I was thinking of your father. He looks troubled nowadays, does you think so?"

NO QUESTIONS

"Well, yes, he does," Grace admitted. "I have noticed it, but, of course, I have asked him no questions."

"Of course," the wife assented. She knew that Grace understood her father too well to make inconvenient inquiries.

"Until he's ready to tell you what's the matter, you'd best not worry," the girl advised succinctly. "Here's your tea. You'll feel better after drinking it. And, for pity's sake, don't borrow trouble."

How secure and self-confident the child was, the mother thought, as she watched her sipping her tea and listening to her talk of college, her work, her various interests. She looked the patrician and thoroughbred, and Myra felt a thrill of pride in her.

She was a good daughter—not emotional nor over-demonstrative—but a girl upon whom one could depend in an emergency. To be sure, she had never had a genuine emergency to face, but she would be equal to it if one should arise.

Yet why should one arise? The mother argued impatiently with herself. She must be very foolish to be as uneasy as she had been just now. She must think of other things. With an effort she listened to what her daughter was saying.

THEIR PLANS

"We must give a luncheon soon for Mary Ellett," Grace was telling her. "I have it done a thing for her since her engagement was announced, and it's only decent to pay her some especial attention. Let's give her something during the Easter holidays, mother."

"Certainly," Myra agreed. "There are several affairs that we must have at that time. Easter's almost here, so we had best make our plans."

The girl smiled contentedly. "It's awfully nice, isn't it, to be able to do such things? I know some girls in my class who are so poor that they never entertain. I often think that I am and things almost too easy in my life. Perhaps I've been spoiled."

"No, no, dear," the mother protested. "You are not spoiled, only happy."

"But I take my happiness for granted," Grace insisted. "Yet there are hundreds of thousands of girls who have to take poverty and self-denial for granted. I'd hate to have to do that."

She laughed as she said it, yet the words echoed in the mother's mind for hours afterward.

To Be Continued.

Animals Under Fire

BOMBARDMENTS affect different animals in different ways.

Dogs, as a rule, show great distress when shells burst near them, and howl piteously. On the other hand, they have been known to dash along the front of a trench during infantry fire, barking and apparently enjoying the noise.

Cats do not care whether they are shelled or "machined," as long as they have a dry corner and food when they are hungry.

There have been instances of lost dogs and cats actually venturing into the British trenches during an engagement. Some of them lived in cottages near the firing-line—long since destroyed—and clung to the remnants of their homes; others strayed a long distance. A nondescript dog, with an Armentieres address on his collar, turned up near Wytschaete early one morning, spent the day with a Territorial battalion, disappeared at dusk, and was never seen again.

A West-country Yeomanry contingent was adopted in the thick of a fight near Fortuin in May by a black cat, which survived a bombardment that killed many men, and has since lived sumptuously in billets with an identification disc around its neck.

Regimental mascots appear to have the best time, for they stay in billets, live on the fat of the land, and are made much of by the local inhabitants. The pampered terrier of a certain famous regiment of foot-guards sat on the top of a transport wagon at the tail of the battalion and barked at all the civilian dogs he passed.

Fairly Caught

Old Mr. Brompton is a very clever man. He has enough degrees after his name to supply a platoon of scientists. Yet the other day his little granddaughter utterly confounded him.

"Grandpa," said she, "I saw something so funny running across the kitchen floor without any legs. What do you think it was?"

Grandpa thought and thought, but at last he had to give it up.

"What was it?" he asked.

"Water!" replied the little lady, triumphantly.

About the Girl Who Tried on a New Love Before She Had Tried Out the Old.

THERE was ones a girl who, without being very pretty or very clever or very worthy, had the beautiful gift of attracting whomsoever attracted her. As a result women (with whom she didn't care to bother) were very indifferent to her, but men—ah! that was a different story and is my story.

Once upon a time Joy (for that was her name) met a very clever man with red hair and blue eyes and no claim to good looks and a great deal of money.

The sense of humor that went with his red hair amused her, and the keenness his blue eyes indicated stimulated her. But his bank account, truthfully advertised as "running well up into five figures," accentuated his two physical good points and cast a merciful shadow over all his bad ones.

Joy found Eric altogether desirable and managed to make Eric think she was altogether to be desired.

At Christmas time Eric's good-looking younger brother came to spend his vacation from college with his big brother who was paying his way through. And Eric proudly introduced the boy of whom he was so proud to the young woman of whom he expected to follow he had expended on a certain platinum-set jewel wasn't going to bring in the right sort of interest.

And within a week after the New Year, when little Joy was wise to her own sorrow. Little brother Lochinvar had gone back to the West without taking any maiden fair along. And big brother was too absorbed in business to answer by telephone calls on his 'phone or to make any personal calls over it.

Garrett P. Serviss Writes About the Life Stories of a People on Alaskan Totem Poles

By GARRETT P. SERVISS.

THE enormous popularity of movies is an outgrowth and one of the strongest instincts of savages—the love of seeing stories and traditions represented in images and pictures. Sometimes the savage supplies, as well as he can, the element of motion by making the images carried about in procession.

But he is well content if he can have the pictured stories always in some conspicuous place before his eyes. The totem pole offers an opportunity for pictorial representation that has been fully improved among some of the Alaska Indian tribes.

The carved poles, as Lieutenant George T. Emmons points out in the American Museum Journal, preserve not only legends and traditions, but much of the life history of the tribes.

Very interesting is the work of the Tsimshian Indians, who seem to possess a particular degree of skill, and whose artists have sometimes been employed by other neighboring tribes. Lieutenant Emmons says: "These stories told in wood go back to the time when men and animals were supposed to be very close to one another, when they inter-married, and saw each other under a spell of witchery that made all appear human, except that the animals wore coats of fur which they could, at will, remove and appear in human form, or put on and become animals."

Some of the wooden columns contain several stories told in carved figures. One series tells of the four stories, which could be read, no doubt, with great delight and wonder, by the savages to whom the traditions and the symbolic figures were familiar.

These stories, as interpreted by an old Indian by Lieutenant Emmons, are full of imaginative power, and as good, in their way, as the legends of the more primitive races, and not inferior to some of the folk stories that many of us listened to with delight when we were children. For instance, take this story of the mountain goats:

A long time ago, when the Kitkean tribe lived on the upper Skeena River, "before the great cold," which disperses the tribes, they used to go, after the end of the salmon season, for a time, to mountain where they hunted mountain goats. On one of these occasions, when there was a great number of goats, a young man who had taken some red paint along to paint his arrows for good luck, caught a kid, whose life he spared, setting it free after having painted its horns red.

The next Spring two white-blanketed strangers appeared in the village, who excused themselves for refusing the hospitable offers of the Indians to feast on goats' flesh and other food, but who very cordially invited the whole community to visit their (the strangers') village, offering to serve as guides.

The invitation was accepted, and the next morning everybody set out under the lead of the strangers. They crossed the river and climbed the mountain until they reached what seemed to be a broad, level place, in the midst of which stood a feast-house.

The visitors enjoyed a great banquet, and then the chief of their hosts began to dance and sing, strangely repeating the words: "I am shaking my hoofs over the mountain side," and at that the rock seemed to open and close again. But the Indians thought it was all magic intended for their entertainment, and when night came on they went to sleep on the outer edge of the platform on benches prepared for them.

But the young man who had spared the kid was drawn aside by a young stranger, who had his face painted red, and who asked him to share his sleeping bench on the other side of the platform.

In the middle of the night the strangers rose in silence and pushed their visitors over the precipice, and they were dashed to pieces. Only the young man was spared, and in the morning when he became aware of the sad fate of his friends his protector assured him that he need have no fear, and, taking off his shoes, which seemed to be hoofs, and putting them on the young hunter's feet, told him to jump fearlessly from cliff to cliff in descending the mountain, and when he reached the base to take off the shoes and leave them in a certain place where their owner could find them again.

A notable point in this story is the reference to "the great cold" which in ancient times had dispersed the people. Here seems to be a surviving tradition which may run back to an unknown antiquity in the history of that part of the world, preserving a dim memory of some extensive and disastrous climatic change.

Artists Create Charming Fashions

Modes for Both Day and Evening Employ Delicate Fabrics

A Summer frock of white lawn, bestrewn with field flowers, featuring the new cape-collar of organdie.

THE girl who likes Quakerish effects—not too demure, not too reserved—will be attracted toward a certain little cotton frock that an American designer has advanced for some lucky maiden to wear "way down South."

To be sure, the Quakers borrowed much of their costume from the Puritans, with whom they are sometimes confused in the lay mind. And, incongruous as it may seem, there is a startling resemblance in the kerchief neck fixings of the latter to garb worn by beauties of the French court during the seventeenth century. In certain instances spouses and favorites of Kings affected the simplicity of the dress of the humble class, so it may be that the dress of Puritan and Quaker of our own Colonial period influenced that of a decadent aristocracy instead of vice versa.

The little lady in the sketch at the left wears a gown of white lawn with field flower pattern in natural colors—red, blue, yellow and brown. The hem had reed tucks. The triple caps collar is of white organdie. Note the elbow sleeves and the girdle of pompadour rose ribbon.

The combination of black and white effects which Paris still insists upon as the best medium to gain the smartest sartorial results, is evidenced in a new frock of black and white satin, shown in the centre of the picture.

Black satin composes the skirt, made of three circular flounces that fall in graceful lines without too pronounced an inclination to spread out. These flounces are hung from a self-foundation.

The sharp contrast of white is brought about in the Russian blouse, whose decorative border and the bust band are embroidered in black and white rope silk interspersed with a discreet use of gold threads. The blouse fastens high at the neck, the line of buttons being continued down one side of the bloused.

Wrist-length sleeves emphasize why he should not indicate it definitely. And since you make him welcome to your home each evening it is absurd to suppose that he believes you do not care for him.

A between-season frock has a skirt of black satin topped by a Russian blouse of white satin, artistically embroidered.

the suggestion of utility conveyed in the lines of the garment which, however, are modishly contradicted by the impracticability of the white satin.

Again has the supremacy of exquisite fabrics and simplicity of line been demonstrated in the world of fashion. At a recent New York fashion show the eye was first riveted to the model at the right, made of black tulle combined with black satin and gold thread embroideries. It represented the essence of refinement in an American evening gown made for American women.

As the sketch indicates, the tulle is draped over a Velasquez reed, which holds the material well out from the figure and supplies a picturesque feature. The panel of satin is weighted with a fringe of gold, and the tulle of the bodice is mounted over cloth of gold at one side, the other side being composed of the gold embroidered satin. One shoulder strap is of black velvet, making an excellent foil for the opposite strap, which is of rhinestones.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

BE AS CHARMING AS POSSIBLE.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am in love with a young man, my senior. This young man tells everyone I'm of his liking for me, but when he is in my company he acts very coldly. What I want to know is whether I shall wait until he tells me of his affection? W. T. B.

THERE is no reason why you should not be as sweet and charming as possible to the man for whom you care, particularly since you have heard from various sources that he cares for you, too. But it seems to me that there is something almost too backward about a youth who cares to tell everybody but the object of his affection of his feeling for her.

DON'T BE FORWARD

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

A certain young man comes to my house every evening, and takes me to places of amusement occasionally. He never tells me when he likes me, and I am beginning to think a great deal of him. This has been going on for almost a year. Do you tell him that I like him very much, as I think he believes I do not care about him?

L. L. L.

I DO not approve of a girl's making advances to a young man. If he cares for you there is no reason

To Discard Aged or Weather-Soiled Skin

To free your skin of blotches, roughness, muddiness, ever-redness, freckles or any cutaneous difficulty, the best thing to do is to free yourself of the skin itself. This is easily accomplished by the use of ordinary mercolized wax. Use at night as you use cold cream, washing it off next morning. Immediately the offending surface skin begins to come off in fine powder-like particles. Gradually the entire cuticle is absorbed in this way, causing no inconvenience. Nor does the face exhibit any evidence of this treatment. The second layer of skin now in view presents a sparkling beauty and youthful roseiness obtainable in no other way we have ever heard of. The mercolized wax can of course be found in any druggists and you won't need more than an ounce of it.

To free yourself of wrinkles or crow's-feet there's nothing better than the ordinary lotion. You need only dissolve an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint of witch hazel and bathe your face in the solution. The effect is quite remarkable, the lines being less in evidence even after the first application.—Advertisement.

A MERCENARY MATCH

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am eighteen and in love with a wealthy man nearly sixty. I am not sure whether my parents would care to have a man of such age call on me. L. H.

WHAT you are in love with is undoubtedly the idea of making a mercenary match. I sincerely hope that your parents would object to having this man, who is probably older than your father, call on you. You really are not in love, but are probably just infatuated with your own foolish and romantic ideas about this situation.

Makes Stubborn Coughs Vanish in a Hurry

Surprisingly Good Cough Syrup Easily and Cheaply Made at Home

If some one in your family has an obstinate cough or a bad throat or chest cold that has been lingering on and refuses to yield to treatment, get from any drug store 2½ ounces of Pinex and make it into a pint of cough syrup, and watch that cough vanish.

Pour the 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents' worth) into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. The total cost is about 54 cents, and gives you a full pint—a family supply—of a most effective remedy, at a saving of $2. A day's use will usually overcome a bad cough. Easily prepared in 5 minutes—full directions with Pinex. Keeps perfectly and has a pleasant taste. Children like it.

It's really remarkable how promptly and easily it loosens the dry, hoarse or tight cough and heals the inflamed membranes in a painful cough. It also stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough. A splendid remedy for bronchitis, winter coughs, bronchial asthma and whooping cough.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, rich in guaiacol, which is so healing to the membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex," and do not accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction goes with this preparation or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.—Advertisement.

ENGINEER ON THE BOSTON & MAINE

F. J. Lowell of 24 Dorchester St., Lawrence, Gives Testimonial for Plant Juice.

If the digestive organs are not properly performing the work that Nature has assigned them, then nutrition, which is absolutely essential for the recovery of other diseased parts, will be lacking, and there can be no permanent relief. When bodily nutrition is normal, the stomach digests the food, the blood absorbs and carries the nourishment to the different parts of the body, causing the various organs to properly perform their functions. Nature has provided a remedy in the ingredients of Plant Juice, the new herbal system tonic, now being introduced here. It is purely vegetable and its vitalizing, corrective and reconstructive qualities are so pronounced that beneficial results are noted from the first day. That this is true, it is only necessary to listen to the statements made daily by local people who have given Plant Juice a fair trial and have been benefited.

One of the most recent signed testimonials received is from Mr. F. J. Lowell, who resides at No. 24 Dorchester Street, Lawrence, who is a popular and well-known engineer of the Boston & Maine Railroad, he having been in its employ for the past 14 years. He says he was troubled with indigestion and biliousness, dizzy spells and loss of appetite. After eating I had dreadful pains in the pit of my stomach, and frequent dizzy spells so that I would fall down on the floor, was constipated most of the time, liver was torpid and I was so nervous and restless I could not sleep at night. I have now taken three bottles of Plant Juice and it has made a new man of me, for I feel completely cured, can eat any kind of food without distress, have no more headaches and will be glad to recommend it to any one."

The Plant Juice Man is at the Liggett Drug Co.'s store, corner of Washington and Avon Streets, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

SAYS N. H. ALONE COULD HANDLE ALL FREIGHT

L. H. Kentfield, general freight manager of the New Haven Railroad, who was star witness yesterday for the road at the hearing on the road's petition to retain its Sound steamboat lines, admitted under lively cross-examination today that, if the rail and boat lines should be divorced, the New Haven would not only be able to take care of its New England freight traffic "but would increase it."

Mr. Kentfield denied competition with the Central Vermont, but admitted that the New Haven had refused a joint rate proposition. He added: "We are not a philanthropy."

The hearing is at the Boston Chamber of Commerce before John Howell, special examiner for the Interstate Commerce Commission. Tomorrow is the last Boston day, Friday the hearing will be transferred to Providence.

WOULD INCREASE FREIGHT.

Mr. Kentfield was questioned by A. H. Elder, counsel for the Interstate Commerce Commission, and by H. Larue Brown, attorney for the Department of Justice.

Q.—In case the lines were separated, would the New Haven road be able to take care of the New England freight traffic by all-rail? A.—We not only would adjust our business to take care of the traffic, but we would increase it?

Later question by Mr. Brown—"Then you mean to say that all these fears expressed here by various shippers are not well founded?"

This referred to shipping witnesses who had said the present service was good and that an independent boat line would not do so well.

"I would not say," replied Mr. Kentfield, "that they should not have any fear but we would take care of the business."

"NOT A PHILANTHROPY."

The question of competition between the Central Vermont and the New Haven's rail-and-boat service kept cropping up. The witness would not admit there was competition.

Q. (by Mr. Elder)—Did the Central Vermont arrange to establish joint rates with the Sound lines and the New Haven road at one time, and was that proposition refused? A.—It was.

Q.—Was it not because you felt that, if such arrangement were made, some of the business now held by the New Haven would go to the Central Vermont? A.—Yes, we did not consider it good business to take money out of our pocket to give to another road. We are not a philanthropy.

Q.—Well then, don't you think that a state of competition might exist? A.—I think, Mr. Elder, that depends upon your interpretation of what competition means.

This precipitated a discussion in which Mr. Kentfield maintained a state of competition did not exist.

On the question of discrimination Mr. Kentfield said:

"When I came to take charge of the freight traffic sixteen years ago I found a chaotic condition, discriminatory and unfair."

Q.—In spite of the fact that you describe the situation sixteen years ago as having been discriminatory, do those conditions still exist between the New Haven and New York on certain rates? A.—Yes, they still hold, although the lines from Fall River and New Bedford are all on a fair basis.

WOBURN INQUIRY STARTED BY STATE

State officials today made an investigation of the trinitrotoluol explosion which wrecked a $50,000 building of the New England Manufacturing Company's plant at Woburn. At the same time investigators in the employ of the company examined the debris to see if there could have been some outside influence to cause the explosion. Officials of the company, however, have come to the conclusion that the explosion was accidental.

The State officials were Deputy Chief Neal of the State Police, acting in his capacity of State Fire Marshal; State Chemist Wedger and Secretary Lake of the office of the Metropolitan Fire Commissioner. With them were Chief McDermott of the Woburn police and Medical Examiner William H. Kelcher.

Superintendent Thomas J. Shannon of the plant made this statement regarding the explosion:

"After a further inquiry among the employes, I learn that the first intimation they had that anything was wrong was when they noticed a distinct rise in temperature on the trinitrotoluol. This rise was constant and continuous. The men investigated, and in a group went to a nearby hydrant. While there the eight employes heard the explosion, and half a ton of debris fell all around them, but fortunately none was hurt."

Mayor Johnson of Woburn said he would write a letter to the company suggesting that they provide an official who would "meet reporters and give out information."

LESS CHILD LABOR IN COTTON MILLS

Washington, March 1.—Fewer children under sixteen years of age now are employed in the cotton mills of New England and the South, than was shown by previous annual surveys of government inspectors, according to an announcement by Royal Meeker, commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics. In the New England group of cotton mills there are 1,711 children under sixteen, and of that number 890 are girls. In the southern group 9,665 are employed. Of that number 4,235 are girls.

FINED FOR HAVING SLOT MACHINES

In the Somerville court today three storekeepers paid fines of $10 each for having in their stores penny slot gambling machines. The men were Guiseppe Santostirito, Highland avenue, Domnicico Carra, Summer street and Ralph Catherino, Union square.

Stocks Weak, Both in Boston and New York, as a Result of President Wilson's Request for Vote of Congress on the U-Boat Question

STOCKS AND INVESTMENTS

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were weak at noontime both in Boston and New York, markets failing to rally during the morning from the recessions which began early in the first hour. Uncertainty increased during the forenoon, particular attention being given to reports from Washington. It was feared that President Wilson's request that Congress vote on warning Americans off armed ships would cause bitter debate and accentuate suspense.

Prices did not drop suddenly, but eased off steadily. News that more ships had been sunk by submarines added to nervousness in trading circles.

During the second hour U. S. Steel sold below 80, and at the lowest price it has touched so far this year. The advent of March did not presage a bull movement.

Declines at 12 o'clock included Anaconda 1⅜, Utah ⅞, Tennessee Copper 2, American Can 1½, American Smelting 1⅜, Car & Foundry 1½, Baldwin 1¼, Crucible 1¾, Marine preferred certificates 1¾, Maxwell 2¾, Studebaker 2⅝, Texas Company 5½, Mexican Petroleum 2⅞, Westinghouse 1⅞, Steel Foundries 2, Pressed Steel 1½, Atchison 1, Baltimore & Ohio ½, Lehigh Valley 1¾, New York Central 1⅛, New Haven ⅝, Northern Pacific ½, Southern Pacific ½, Union Pacific, ex-dividend, ⅝, St. Paul 1⅛, Reading 1⅝, U. S. Steel, ex-dividend 1, and, Canadian Pacific, ex-dividend, 1½.

BOSTON RECEDED, TOO.

By noon coppers, zincs and most specialties were lower in Boston, but declines did not average as large as those revealed by the New York list. Losses here included Alaska Gold ⅛, Butte & Superior 1, American Zinc ⅝, Allouez 1, Copper Range 1, Isle Royale ¼, North Butte ½, Osceola 1⅝, Quincy ½, Old Dominion 1, U. S. Smelting ½, United Fruit 1 and New Haven ¼.

Calumet & Arizona was up ½.

IRREGULAR AT OPENING.

Stocks were irregular at the opening in New York with price changes small and nothing of especial interest about trading. Within a few minutes the tone improved, but gains continued to average little. Earliest business was of comparatively light volume. Traders appeared at first to be less alarmed over the international situation, but were decidedly cautious. It was the consensus of opinion that this is a time when about anything may happen, and that "safety first" applies as much to speculation as to avoiding corporeal risks. The market, in brief, began as a waiting affair.

MARKET GREW WEAKER SOON.

At the start the supply of stocks was no greater than demand, but within half an hour offerings increased to an extent that weakened the market. The recession was moderate, being confined to a fractional average. Baldwin Locomotive, however, sagged more than a point and later sold below par.

LOCAL TRADING NARROW.

The Boston market was quiet and narrow when trading began and presented little of interest. It was firm at the start, but prices receded here when they began to yield in New York. Most of the trading was in mining shares. U. S. Smelting, Calumet & Arizona and American Zinc were among the active issues. All were higher around the start. The list ranged lower within thirty minutes.

FINANCIAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

Corporation financing done in February is estimated to total $217,000,000.

Chesapeake & Ohio's January gross increased $941,213, while its gain in net after taxes amounted to $366,122. For seven months gains were $5,058,018 in gross, $2,835,331 in net and $2,788,752 in surplus after charges.

Steel orders aggregating 4,000,000 tons and valued at $240,000,000, have been placed so far this year. They represent mill profits estimated at $80,000,000.

Illinois Central gross increased $381,345 in January, and it gained $4,840 in net after taxes. Increases for seven months were $2,073,871 and $618,600.

Business Opportunities.

A Great Opportunity for a Brewery or Bottler.

A fine plant erected on a plot 100x100 ft. located on the corner of two prominent streets, alongside of tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad in the heart of a large city in the State of New Jersey, equipped with a large new ice and storage house adapted for the wholesale and retail ice and beer business. There is a two-story house with concrete floors adapted for a bottling establishment, furthermore, a two-story stable and a separate office building, fully furnished, wagon shed, platform scale, horses, new harness and blankets, wagons and carts all clear and free from any encumbrance. Reason for selling is that owner is engaged in the brewery business and obliged to pay all attention to the same. Price $30,000, of which $15,000 can stand on mortgage. Address all applications to O. L., 819 Broad st., Newark, N. J.

The Bay State Street Railway Asks the Public for Pity Because the Cost of Living Has Gone Up, But It HAS NOT GONE UP for Street Railways---On the Contrary, It Has Gone Down

FOR many months now the Bay State Street Railway has published in its cars some strong statements concerning the increase in the cost of living. Very pitifully this unhappy corporation has told its passengers that everything in America during the last twenty years has gone up but the fares which its passengers pay it for transporting them.

In much detail the increase in the cost of commodities is proclaimed in this placard, which stands across the middle of its thousand cars. Then, sadly, the railroad asks, why, if everything has gone up, should not car fares go up?

There might be some force in the argument if EVERYTHING HAD gone up. But "there's the rub." Unfortunately for the argument, but fortunately for the railroad, EVERYTHING has NOT gone up during the last twenty years. Many things, many IMPORTANT things that enter into the cost of operating a street railway, have GONE DOWN, WAY DOWN. And so many are these things and so important are they and so far down has their cost gone, that the total net cost of operating a PRUDENTLY, HONESTLY, INTELLIGENTLY managed street railway is less today than it was twenty years ago.

Consider just a few facts. The AMERICAN states them without fear of successful contradiction, but invites the Bay State Street Railway to contradict them in our columns if it wishes to do so.

Let us consider first the cost of the car. In 1890 a car body, motor and truck cost $4,000. That car seated only twenty passengers. This means that it cost $180 per seat. Now, in 1916, a modern car body, motor and truck costs $6,000. But this big car seats fifty-seven passengers, more than double the number of the little old car of twenty years ago. Therefore, the cost of this car per seat is only $105 per seat, as compared with the cost of $180 per seat of the car twenty years ago.

Now let us take the cost of equipping a power station to make the electricity which propels the car. In 1890 the cost was $150 per kilowatt. In 1916 it was $40. A kilowatt is the unit measurement for electricity, like an inch in distance or a pound in weight.

In 1890 it took seven and one-half tons of coal to make a kilowatt of electricity. In 1916 it takes ONLY TWO AND ONE-HALF TONS.

The real cost of labor has also gone down in the same proportion. In 1890 wages were twenty cents per hour. Two men per car would therefore cost forty cents. This would make it cost the company in 1890 for the wages of the conductor and motorman 1.81 cents per hour per passenger or seat. But in 1916, although wages for one hour for two men had gone up from 40 to 60 cents, the real cost of these men to the railway company has fallen from 1.81 cents per passenger per hour to 1.05 cents. This is a tremendous fall in the cost of living to the street railway, which carries millions of passengers in a year.

But this is not all. With the trailer car, which is being very belatedly introduced in Massachusetts, the modern street railway's cost of living has fallen still more. A trailer train, two cars, cost $9,000. At the modern wage the crew would cost the railway 90 cents per hour, or only .72 cents per seat hour, as compared with 1.81 cents per seat hour in 1890. "What a fall is that!"

The art of operating street railways has steadily advanced during the last twenty years and that advance has meant a steady reduction in the cost of operation.

In a recent editorial supporting the demand of the steam railroad men for an eight-hour day, the AMERICAN warned the public that the public service corporations were engaged in an unremitting struggle to steal for themselves the whole benefit of the advance in the arts and sciences. Their method is simple. First they conceal and deny the fact that there is such a benefit and then by watering their stock and by fraudulent consolidations and purchases, they quietly absorb it all, so that neither the men who work for them nor the public they serve get any advantage from the inventive genius, NOT of railroad managers, but of the general public.

These evil practices are at the bottom of a very large part of the increase in the cost of living. It is the worst of all the schemes of exploitation of the public. It is one of the strongest arguments in favor of the public ownership of these public service corporations.

Consider the effrontery of these corporations. The case of the Bay State is typical. It not only steals from the public all the benefit of the DECREASED cost of operating a street railway, but it actually pretends that this cost has increased and bases a demand for more tribute from the public upon that PRETENDED INCREASE!

Congressman Gallivan Is Consistent

CONGRESSMAN GALLIVAN'S attitude toward the President's flop on the question of armed belligerent vessels is entirely consistent with his own past conduct.

When the President, in violation of his party platform, flopped on the Panama toll question, Mr. Gallivan did not support him, though Mr. Gallivan was a Democrat and President Wilson was the party leader. Congressman Gallivan remained true to the party promise then, as today he remains true to the real policy of peace which the President has affected to preserve but which now he abandons.

This country wants no "peace at any price," nor do we want war at any price. Congressman Gallivan will undoubtedly find that he has the approval of his district.

In-Shoots

City beautiful talk from the man who allows rubbish to accumulate in his back yard arouses no enthusiasm.

Of course the machine politician is the one who never passes any of the campaign fund in our direction.

The man who dresses well enough to look like a fashion plate is seldom worth much save for exhibition purposes.

If in the form of flannel cakes, chewing the rag is not so unpleasant.

Simple diet will swell man's pocketbook even if it does not prolong his life.

The unkissed girl generally has a face that no one wants to kiss, anyhow.

Be sure you are right—and then take out a little accident insurance.

LOOKING FORWARD!

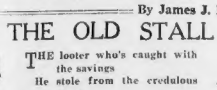
More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

THE OLD STALL

WHENEVER they collar a scoundrel
Who has stowed a few millions away—
A master of craft who has raked in the graft
In a highly respectable way—
And get the machinery ready
For sliding him over the skids
He wails in despair: "This attack isn't fair;
It will ruin my wife and kids!"



THE looter who's caught with the savings
He stole from the credulous poor
Finds doing his time for this favorite crime
Uncommonly hard to endure.
It isn't himself that he cares for,
He says with a pitiful moan,
But, oh! the disgrace that his children must face!
Why couldn't they let him alone!

AND this, in one form or another,
Is the wail that they all of them make,
The tears that they shed when to cells they are led
Are all for their family's sake.
These piteous pleas from their loved ones
Are always profoundly appealing;
Yet never a grafter the sheriff goes after
Seems to think of the kids when he's stealing!

Striking Similarity

After reading Henry van Dyke's comparison of Wilson with Washington we admit that there is a resemblance. Both their last names begin with the same letter.

The Burnt Child

Mr. Taft speaks from the heart when he denounces the primaries as a fraud. They got him a nomination that was good in only two States of the Union.

Why Go So Far Afield?

Secretary Redfield seems unduly elated at the discovery of great quantities of bone in Alaska. Why doesn't he keep his eyes open in Washington?

And Then One

Admiral Fletcher says there are fifteen vital defects in the navy. Discipline prevents him from adding the sixteenth, and greatest, who happens to be his superior in office.

No Place for a Search

If, as Senator Lodge announces, popular government has been long in the United States, it will be necessary to go somewhere besides Washington to look for it.

A Cinch!

Of course Mr. Wilson may change his mind again about the second term plank, but he will change it still again before the convention.

No Volunteers Yet

It looks as if Mr. Wilson would have to resort to conscription in order to fill the Cabinet.

The Mystery Cleared

We now understand the puzzle of Mr. Wilson's single track mind. It is on a turntable.

Marriage as a Crucible

It Brings Out the Best and the Worst in Us, Says Dorothy Dix

By Dorothy Dix

A BOSTON woman thinks that much matrimonial infelicity would be prevented if all young couples who are contemplating entering the holy estate would be compelled to go before a commission and make satisfactory replies to a number of queries that she suggests. Among these leading questions that she would put to the matrimonial candidates is this:

"How long have you known each other?"

I wonder what the right answer to that conundrum is.

A man and a woman who had never been married might say an hour—a day—a week—a year—ten years, according to whether they were romantic and impulsive or matter-of-fact and prudent.

But those who have been married have found out from their own personal experience that it doesn't make a particle of difference how much or how little previous acquaintance you have had with the party of the other part before you were married to the said party of the other part, because you never know him or her until after you are married, and then it's too late.

The Crucial Experience

The truth is that matrimony is one of the crucial experiences of life that bring out the best and the worst that is in us, and none of us knows until we have been through it just how close we, or another, can come to the angels, and how near we can descend to the brute. Therefore, before marriage we not only unconsciously deceive our husbands or wives, but we are totally ignorant of our own potentialities.

To a certain degree marriage develops whatever is the leading characteristic of the individual, so that it may be said that what a man or woman is before marriage he or she will be after marriage, only more so.

Thus the girl who is given to making sarcastic and biting speeches before marriage is pretty apt to develop into a shrew after marriage, and the man who is bossy as a suitor is likely to be a tyrannical husband, while he who is close in the courting days may be counted on to keep a padlock on his pocketbook in domestic life.

So far as these characteristics go, something may be said in favor of marrying only those whom you have known long enough to observe their tricks and their manners, and draw deductions therefrom.

No Guide to Win

In the lottery of marriage, however, there are no rules for playing the game so as to win. They are all exceptions, and wedlock just as often changes a person's characteristics as it intensifies them. All of us know men who have married poor girls who were noted for their thrifty and domestic traits, hoping thereby to get economical helpmates, but the minute these models of economy and industry were married they became extravagant and lazy.

We also know girls who were frivolous and fashionable and extravagant, and who, everybody predicted, would ruin their husbands, metamorphosed by the marriage ceremony from butterflies into household grubs, and who were ever after the best cooks and managers in the community.

Sometimes, too, a man who is hard and stingy to all the world is tenderness and generosity itself to his wife, while he who is most admired by the outside world for his virtues, is cruel and unkind to his own family—which all goes to show that you never can tell what sort of a wife or husband any woman or man will make.

Marriage is the acid test of character, and until it is applied there is no knowing what is pinchbeck and what pure gold, and by the time you have made your test it's too late for anything but Reno or making the best of your bargain.
